

Carolina 1982

Heisman Trophy Candidate
Kelvin Bryant

“Kelvin! Kelvin! Kelvin!”

Bill Brill in The Roanoke Times and World-News: "With all due respect to Marcus Allen and Herschel Walker, the original college football scoring machine wears the light blue and white of North Carolina."

"Given the 195-pounder's six-game statistics, it is incredible to project what might have been. It is certainly conceivable Bryant would have established an all-time NCAA one-season point record, and he would likely have pressed Allen for the yardage leadership."

Duke Coach Red Wilson: "Kelvin Bryant was the difference. With Kelvin Bryant healthy, Carolina shouldn't lose a game. When he is healthy, he is the greatest back in the country."

Texas Defensive Tackle Kenneth Sims: "Bryant is a North-South runner. He runs the ball goal line to goal line. It's just WHOOSH and he's gone."

Former Notre Dame Coach Ara Parseghian: "Bryant is a deceptive runner. He never stumbles over anybody. If there's the slightest crease, he finds it. And he has great acceleration when he hits that crease. It's unbelievable the way he runs. He's really different from anybody I've ever seen. He's built like O.J. Simpson. Like O.J., when he gets into the secondary, no one is going to catch him."

Wilt Browning in the Greensboro Daily News: "Saturday's game was a classic example of the ability of this classy running back who is, perhaps, the best ever to carry a football on the turf of Kenan Stadium. He uses his talented offensive line with the skill of a jeweler. And frequently, he ad libs plays that simply are not there, dancing away from trouble at the offensive line, breaking his pace sharply as one linebacker slides past him, then gunning back to full speed as he turns against the grain and into the open field. Seldom on this Saturday did a single Boston College defender bring him to his knees. It was a Heisman kind of performance."

N.C. State Coach Monte Kiffin: "Kelvin Bryant displayed some talents I am not sure any college team could've stopped."

Craig Barnes in the Fort Lauderdale Sun-Sentinel: "Kelvin means to North Carolina what Herschel means to Georgia or Marcus means to Southern Cal."

"What hasn't hit Bryant yet is he has already moved above anything North Carolina has ever had. His name is magic because people recognize his ability to be the same."

A hero and friend

Arkansas Coach Lou Holtz: "If North Carolina hadn't lost Kelvin Bryant and Rod Elkins to injuries, they would have been Number One in the country."

"I never saw a back break 11 tackles on a run, but Bryant broke seven against Duke. If the other four guys could've caught up, he'd probably broken those, too."

Ronald Green in The Charlotte News: "At least once in their lives everyone ought to get to see Kelvin Bryant when he's on a roll."

Sam Heys in The Atlantic Constitution: "Kelvin Bryant, whose legs don't stop, who really likes to score touchdowns and who has waited his turn, is making up for lost time. He has spent September in the end zone of Kenan Stadium. Kelvin Bryant—"a darter" as his coach calls him—is leading the world in touchdowns."

Doug Looney in Sports Illustrated: "With 2.57 left to play in a drowsy, scoreless first quarter, North Carolina Tailback Kelvin Bryant, the alpha and omega of the undefeated Tar Heels' offense, erupted through the right side of the Georgia Tech line last Saturday in Atlanta. Whoosh, glide, see you later. He gained 13 yards so smoothly that up in the stands of Grant Field the parallels between Bryant's graceful style and that of Gale Sayers were being drawn again."

Duke Running Back Mike Grayson: "If he wasn't 100 percent, damn."

Joe Tiede in Raleigh's The News & Observer: "The Tar Heels have other problems. Kelvin Bryant is tailing off in his touchdown production. He only scored four Saturday."

"Seriously, Bryant may well be the best running back in college football. Herschel Walker is bigger and stronger, but Bryant is a more dangerous and more versatile runner."

North Carolina Coach Dick Crum: "There's no one else in the country exactly like Kelvin. He's a unique running back."

Al Featherston in The Durham Sun: "Forget Kelvin Bryant's statistics. Bryant is poetry, not arithmetic. You might as well try to assign a number value to Milton's Paradise Lost or Keats' Ode on a Grecian Urn as to describe Bryant's balletic second-quarter touchdown run in terms of statistics."

"No other back playing college football today could have made the run Bryant made against the Blue Devils Saturday. Maybe... just maybe... Gale Sayers could have duplicated the whirling, slashing, dancing trek... probably not."

Ronald Green, Jr. in The Chapel Hill Newspaper: "Kelvin Bryant has a way of making things exciting. When he takes the field with the North Carolina Tar Heels, the game immediately changes. For the opposition it's like carrying nitroglycerin—one wrong move and boom."

Winston-Salem Journal columnist Lennox Rawlings: "Until he was injured in Carolina's fourth game, Kelvin Bryant was the best running back since O.J. Simpson."

Ron Morris in the Durham Morning Herald: "Bryant possesses the certain magic that separates the good running back from the exceptional one. That magic is something the average fan can appreciate. It's a sense that when Bryant touches the football, anything can happen. A long run or a touchdown is possible on every play."

Kelvin Claus

Arkansas Coach Lou Holtz: "SMU has a power runner in Craig James and a speed runner in Eric Dickerson. Carolina has both in one man when Bryant is playing. He's the best back we've seen this year."

Bill Cole in the Winston-Salem Journal: "Kelvin Bryant shed his shackles last Saturday. He was finally turned loose for the first time in his college career. Opposing coaches were worried about what might happen when Bryant took over at tailback for Carolina. Most of what had frightened them happened once the green light was flashed. Bryant, given the starting role, destroyed a team."

Duke Coach Red Wilson (talking about the '83 NFL draft): "If all goes well, the ACC will probably have the number one pick in the country in Kelvin Bryant."

Bill Ford in The Cincinnati Enquirer: "Attention Heisman Trophy committee: Kelvin Bryant is the one, the only one. Everyone else is an imposter, a cheap imitation. Step by step, yard by yard, pass by pass, this incredible North Carolina tailback single-handedly destroyed the bewildered Redskins of Miami, 49-7, and made the task look easy."

ABC Broadcaster Al Michaels: "It's unbelievable. There wasn't a person in the stadium who didn't know who was going to carry the ball or the play. Yet he still got it in the end zone. Bryant is just amazing."

Pat Moriarity, Boston College strong safety: "He's very elusive. You think you've got him, he stops dead, then he's by you. He's something else."

Keith Drum in the Durham Morning Herald: "It's fun to watch him run."

Duke Defensive End Charles Bowser: "When you play Kelvin Bryant, you've got to be ready every time the ball is snapped."

North Carolina Offensive Guard David Drechsler: "Kelvin is so quick to hit the hole that you don't hold a block long or he'll run up your back. What you do is brush a lineman and go look for a linebacker."

Bill Brill in The Roanoke Times and World-News: "Bryant looked marvelous against Duke. Even as damaged goods, he was a sight to behold."

Glenn Rollins in The Charlotte Observer: "Bryant simply might be the fastest draw who ever played at his place. And that's a mouthful. Tar Heel runners have had 12 seasons of 1,000 yards or more. That trails only Southern California's 13."

Miami Coach Tom Reed: "Kelvin Bryant is the complete player. He's real class football."

Al Featherston in The Durham Sun: "Notre Dame once had four famous horsemen, but they were just nags compared to the thoroughbred North Carolina unleashed Saturday against East Carolina. The only thing missing was the poet in the pressbox... the Grantland Rice who should have been on hand to frame the deeds of Kelvin Bryant."

Craig Barnes in the Fort Lauderdale Sun-Sentinel: "No one, not O.J., not Tony Dorsett, not even Herschel has ever experienced the type of start Bryant enjoyed in 1981. It immediately cast him into the Heisman Trophy picture with Marcus and Herschel."

"A year ago George Rogers of South Carolina snatched the Heisman from Herschel. With 2,000 yards in the books, Marcus seems destined to do the same this year. And, if Kelvin can put the kind of finish next year with a start to match this season's, he might be the next man to deprive the football player most Georgia people have on their minds."

North Carolina Coach Dick Crum: "We've had better downfield blocking this year than I can ever remember having. And the reason for it is that those guys blocking down there know if they block long enough Kelvin's going to show up pretty soon."

"It's a good thing Dean Smith isn't coaching your football team," a writer told me early last fall.

"Why's that," I asked, waiting for the punchline.

"Because Kelvin Bryant couldn't play for him," the writer laughed. "Dean would never have anyone on his team who averages 30 points a game."

Amazingly, that's what Kelvin Bryant was averaging after three weeks of the 1981 football season. In the University of North Carolina's first three games he scored 15 touchdowns and rushed for 520 yards. He had seven more TDs than any other player in the country and was third nationally in rushing with his 173.3 yards-per-game average.

After just three games he was already over halfway to Lydell Mitchell's NCAA single-season touchdown record of 29 and was in position to race Marcus Allen to the 2,000-yard rushing mark.

In three games Kelvin Bryant captured the imagination of his home state as few other athletes ever have. Newspapers referred to him as simply "Kelvin" in headlines; chants of "Kelvin, Kelvin, Kelvin" rang down from the stands in Kenan Stadium; "Kelvin for the Heisman" tee-shirts became hot sellers across North Carolina; national magazines sent writers to Chapel Hill to interview college football's newest phenom.

Oh, other athletes in this state have received similar adulation—Phil Ford and David Thompson to name a couple. But not since the immortal Charlie "Choo Choo" Justice in the late Forties had a football player attracted so much interest.

Soft-spoken and almost shy off the field, Bryant was unaccustomed to such attention. A shoulder injury had sidelined him for most of his freshman season. Although he gained 1,039 yards as a sophomore and won All-Atlantic Coast Conference honors, he was generally over-shadowed by teammates Lawrence Taylor, Ron Wooten, Amos Lawrence and Rick Donnalley.

However, Bryant handled his sudden fame extremely well. He was cooperative with the media—he actually enjoyed being interviewed it was discovered. But, he also knew he was not a one-man show. When he was asked about his feats on the playing field, he was always quick to credit fullback Alan Burrus and his offensive line for his success.

Unfortunately, his success came to an abrupt end in Carolina's fourth game. A knee injury at Georgia Tech put a halt to Bryant's bid for records, All-America honors and the Heisman Trophy. He had to undergo arthroscopic surgery for torn cartilage and doctors said he was probably out for the season.

But, a diligent rehabilitation program got Bryant back into action in the Tar Heels' ninth game. He played briefly, but ineffectively, in Carolina's classic showdown with Clemson. He had medical clearance to play, but wasn't anywhere near 100 percent. He had, after all, been out of action for five weeks. Still he tried to play because the game was so important.

The following week at Virginia he was much better and gained 171 yards. Then in the season finale at Duke, he had a career-high 247 yards to hit the 1,000-yard mark for the second straight year.

His season totals of 1,015 yards and 18 touchdowns were outstanding, but not the kind which make a runner a top Heisman Trophy contender. But, when one considers that Bryant compiled those figures while playing in just 22 of Carolina's 44 quarters last year, then it becomes evident why we consider him Carolina's top Heisman candidate since Justice finished second in the 1949 voting.

We are aware no ACC player has ever won the Heisman. But, there has never been a player like Kelvin Bryant in the ACC. For that matter, there haven't been many players like Kelvin Bryant anywhere. He is a unique running back. We hope you will follow his exploits during the 1982 season.

Media Information

CREDENTIALS: Working press credentials for Carolina home games can be obtained by contacting Rick Brewer in the Sports Information Office. Brewer's mailing address is P.O. Box 2126, Chapel Hill, N.C. 27514.

Requests are screened with care to insure a working pressbox. Children, spouses and pets are not allowed in compliance with the working code of the Football Writers Association of America.

FILING COPY: The Department of Athletics furnishes a number of telephones for writers to use in moving their copy from the pressbox. Anyone desiring a private phone should contact Southern Bell in Chapel Hill.

The Carolina Sports Information Office has one telecopier which will be available for sending copy. An operator's fee of $10 per game will be charged for its use. This fee will cover the cost of a student assistant staying late to send copy. It is strongly suggested, however, that if at all possible, newsmen covering games in Kenan Stadium bring their own telecopiers. This will allow all copy to be moved more quickly and will alleviate any deadline problems.

PRESSBOX SERVICES: Programs, flip cards and statistics will be provided before each game. A play-by-play will be distributed at the conclusion of each quarter. Halftime statistics will also be available. Complete team and individual statistics, a scoring summary and coaches' quotes will be provided after the game.

Lunch will be served on the third level of the pressbox before each game and at halftime. Soft drinks and coffee are available on the second level (writers' area) throughout the game.

SIDELINE POLICY: Photographers will not be allowed on the sidelines without an armband. Armbands can be picked up in the pressbox prior to the game. Each photographer must pick up his or her own armband from Monty Woods of the Sports Information Office.

INTERVIEWS: Each Tuesday during the football season Dick Crum will be available to the media at a press luncheon. Television and radio tapes can be done at 11:30 a.m. with the luncheon starting at noon in Kenan Fieldhouse.

Player interviews can be arranged by contacting the Sports Information Office. Generally, interviews will be set up in Kenan Fieldhouse. However, Carolina's actual locker room is closed to the press during the season except on Saturdays following games. Player interviews are not allowed on Fridays preceding games.

RADIO NETWORK AND TV SHOW: Over 60 stations in three states will once again carry the Tar Heel Football Network. The network is operated by Village Companies of Chapel Hill with Jim Heavner as the executive producer. Woody Durham handles the play-by-play with Draggan Mihailovich adding color commentary.

The Carolina Football Show will be televised across the state of North Carolina each Sunday. Durham serves as emcee for this program which features Crum and highlights of the previous game.

1982 Prospectus

With Heisman Trophy candidate Kelvin Bryant heading a cast of 15 returning starters, the University of North Carolina should again be a leading contender for the Atlantic Coast Conference football championship this fall.

Carolina posted a 10-2 record last season, defeated Arkansas in the Gator Bowl and finished eighth and ninth in the final wire service polls. That marked the second straight year Carolina had finished in the Top 10 in both the Associated Press and United Press International rankings, the first time any ACC team has accomplished that feat.

A strong nucleus of returning players should give the Tar Heels an opportunity to stretch that streak to three seasons. However, if Carolina is to again be ranked among the nation's elite, some problems must be solved.

The major area of concern is the kicking game. There is also inexperience at tight end, right tackle and inside linebacker. But despite these question marks, there is optimism in the Tar Heel camp.

"We were very young a year ago," says Carolina Coach Dick Crum. "We should be a more mature football team this fall. That maturity, combined with our talent, gives us the potential to be a very good club."

The Tar Heels do have excellent talent. Five returning players earned All-ACC honors last season—Bryant, All-America offensive guard David Drechsler, third-team All-America defensive back Greg Poole, offensive guard Ron Spruill and defensive tackle William Fuller.

Bryant heads up an offense that has outstanding possibilities. Eight starters are back from last season's unit which produced 4,573 yards (11th in the country and the second-highest total in school history) and 344 points (10th in the nation and the third-highest total ever at Carolina). The Tar Heels led the ACC in total offense, rushing and scoring.

The play of Bryant had much to do with that offensive success. The 6-2, 195-pound senior tailback from Tarboro, N.C. rushed for 1,015 yards and scored 18 touchdowns last fall. While these figures are outstanding, they are not sensational. At least they are not sensational until one realizes Bryant compiled them while playing in just 22 of Carolina's 44 quarters—half of a season. Then they become not only sensational, but incredible—the kind of statistics which make Bryant the top Heisman Trophy candidate in ACC history.

Bryant got off to a remarkable start last season. After three games he was leading the country in scoring with 15 touchdowns and was third nationally in rushing, averaging 173.3 yards per game. However, he suffered a knee injury in the first quarter of Carolina's fourth game and missed the next four weeks.

After undergoing arthroscopic surgery for torn cartilage, Bryant went through diligent rehabilitation and returned to action late in the year. Although not full speed, he rushed for a career-high 247 yards in the season finale against Duke and then added another 148 yards in the Gator Bowl. By spring practice, Bryant had completely recovered.

At 100 percent, Bryant gives the Tar Heels one of the most dangerous breakaway threats in college football. A 9.3 sprinter, Bryant is a tough inside runner and an excellent receiver. He is the latest in a long line of standout I-formation tailbacks at Carolina and is generally regarded as the best of them all.

Kelvin Bryant finds running room between David Drechsler (54) and Ron Spruill (68.)

However, Bryant is not the only star runner in the Tar Heel program. There is excellent depth at this position in sophomore Ethan Horton and junior Tyrone Anthony. Horton, switched from quarterback to tailback at mid-season last year, had 144 yards and two touchdowns in the Gator Bowl. In two of his three starts last fall Anthony rushed for 224 and 183 yards. They give Carolina the kind of tailback depth that great I-formation teams must have.

While Bryant looms as the Tar Heels' most serious Heisman Trophy contender since Charlie Justice, he is not the only all-star candidate in the backfield. Quarterback Rod Elkins, a 6-1, 205-pound senior from Greensboro, N.C., has the ability to be one of the best players in America at his position.

Pure and simple, Elkins is a winner. When he has been healthy in the last two years, Carolina's record has been 20-1. After leading the ACC in passing as a sophomore, he had a good junior season last fall. However, it could have been better except for a mid-season ankle injury from which he never fully recovered. He finished with 69 completions out of 136 attempts, 994 yards and nine touchdowns.

At his best in pressure situations, Elkins is a dangerous scrambler who throws well on the run. He has a unique ability for turning busted plays into big gainers. He is also an outstanding leader.

"I'm expecting a big year from Rod," says Crum. "A lot of people would have been happy with the year he had last season, but not him. He's the kind of competitor who always thinks he can do better. I think he's going to be motivated to have a big senior season."

Backing up Elkins is Scott Stankavage, a junior from Doylestown, Pa., who gained valuable game experience last year because of Rod's injury.

The third starting spot in the backfield will go to either Alan Burrus or James Jones. Burrus started the first 10 games last season at fullback and did an excellent job. His running ability complemented Carolina's tailbacks very well and he also proved to be a fine blocker. However, he tore knee ligaments at Virginia and missed the Duke game and the Gator Bowl. He also was unavailable for spring practice.

Jones filled in for Burrus after his injury and played extremely well. His blocking in the Gator Bowl was a major factor in the Tar Heel win over Arkansas. He also did a good job in the spring and will go into the fall as the starter. A healthy Burrus could get the job back. Also in the picture here is converted tailback Bobby Ratliff.

These players will operate behind a veteran offensive line which could be one of the best in the country. Four of the five starters from last season return this year.

The leader of this unit is Drechsler, a 6-4, 250-pound senior from Cleveland, N.C. He started every game at left guard last season and was a first-team All-America on the squad chosen by the Football Writers Association of America. He has the strength and size to be a devastating blocker on power plays and the quickness and speed to be effective on sweeps and traps. He teams with Spruill to give Carolina perhaps the best pair of guards in the college game.

Spruill, a 6-2, 250-pound senior from Hampton, Va., has started every game for the past two seasons. He is a fierce competitor with excellent techniques. The selection of both Spruill and Drechsler to the All-ACC team last year marked the first time in league history that the two all-conference guards came from the same team.

Other returning starters up front are left tackle Brian Blados and center Steve McGrew. Blados, a 6-6, 290-pound junior from Arlington, Va., got better and better throughout the 1981 season. He could challenge for all-star honors this fall. McGrew, a 6-2, 245-pound senior from Cincinnati, Ohio, started the first eight games last year before suffering an ankle injury which forced him out of action down the stretch. He's fundamentally sound with good intelligence and quickness. He may be the Tar Heels' most under-rated player.

Ethan Horton picks up yardage against Maryland.

The only missing regular from last season is right tackle Mike Marr. Best bet to replace him is Bill Lawson, a 6-7, 255-pound sophomore from Clifton, Va. Lawson was red-shirted last fall after being moved from defense to offense. He then made good progress in the spring. However, a couple of other players are still in the picture at this spot.

Depth in the line will come from a group which includes junior Joe Conwell and sophomores Bobby Pope, Mike Donaldson, Greg Naron, Willy Austin and Darryl Smith.

Gone from the receiving corp are tight end Shelton Robinson and split end Jon Richardson. Robinson, a three-year starter, will be especially difficult to replace.

"Shelton was probably the best blocking tight end in college football," says Crum. "He was like having a third offensive tackle in the lineup. I think we have some players who can do the job catching the ball for us at this position, but they need work on their blocking. The problem is that whoever steps in here will be compared to Robinson and that really isn't fair. Shelton was in a class by himself as a blocker."

Leading candidates for the tight end job are Doug Sickels, a 6-3, 235-pound senior from Springfield, Ohio, and Jeff Ray, a 6-3, 240-pound sophomore from Durham, N.C. Sickels was the number two tight end last season, while most of Ray's playing time came on specialty teams.

Despite the loss of Richardson, Carolina's leading pass-catcher last year with 28 receptions, there is talent at wide receiver. Junior Mark Smith, sophomore Larry Griffin and senior Victor Harrison have all started in the past and have good ability.

Smith has the speed to be a game-breaker for the Tar Heels. He averaged 19.4 yards on 19 catches last season. Griffin averaged 19.1 yards on 10 catches, including three for touchdowns. A high school quarterback, last season was his first at this position. Harrison has good moves, quickness and experience.

Earl Winfield, a 6-0, 186-pound freshman from Petersburg, Va., is another possibility here. He missed all of last year with a shoulder injury, but had an outstanding spring. Because of his injury he still has four years of eligibility.

"Overall, I like the way our offense is developing," says Crum. "However, we must stay consistent all season. When we had consistency last year, we were pretty good."

"But we were inconsistent at times. Some of that can be attributed to inexperience and injury. However, there are areas where we can definitely improve."

The same is true on defense where Crum is hoping for a better pass rush. With four of last year's front five returning, there is good reason to expect improvement in that phase of the game.

Heading up the defensive front is Fuller, a 6-3, 245-pound junior from Chesapeake, Va., who had a remarkable sophomore season. In his first year as a starter Fuller led the Tar Heels in tackles with 60 solo hits and 24 assists. He followed that up with great work in the spring.

Fuller has excellent speed and quickness which helped him make 22 tackles behind the line of scrimmage, including nine sacks. His 22 tackles for losses equals the most any player has had in Crum's time at Carolina. Lawrence Taylor had that same number in 1980. Fuller was named the top sophomore defensive player in the country by The Football News.

"We expect William to be even better this year," says Crum. "He has great natural ability. It's amazing that a man his size could have the speed and quickness that he possesses. He could be one of Carolina's all-time greats if he continues to work and improve."

Other returnees up front are tackle Jack Parry, a 6-1, 256-pound senior from Mechanicsburg, Pa.; nose guard Steve Fortson, a 6-2, 240-pound junior from Dayton, Ohio; and outside linebacker Mike Wilcher, a 6-3, 235-pound senior from Washington, D.C. Like Fuller, all were first-time starters last season and all did good jobs.

Wilcher was one of the stars of spring practice and could be headed for a big senior season. He has the ability to be a big-play performer in the Tar Heel defense. He was the team's fifth-leading tackler last season and had eight sacks. His strength, speed and quickness helped him do a solid job of taking over Lawrence Taylor's old starting spot. The experience he gained last year should make him even better this fall.

The only new starter in the front five should be Aaron Jackson, a 6-3, 235-pound sophomore from Washington, D.C. He will move into the outside linebacker post vacated by Calvin Daniels. He has excellent athletic ability and just needs experience to become a solid performer.

Depth along the line will be provided by outside linebackers Butch Griffin, Jeff Blaylock and Jeff Pierce; nose guard Ronnie Snipes, who saw considerable action last fall; tackle Brian Johnston, who has been moved from offense where he started four games at center last season; and tackle Billy Bumgarner, a sophomore who shows great promise.

The biggest question mark on defense is at linebacker where the Tar Heels have lost four-year starter Darrell Nicholson and two-year regular Lee Shaffer. Nicholson was an All-ACC performer in 1980 and Shaffer earned all-conference honors last season.

Last year's top reserves, Chris Ward and Bill Sheppard, are the most likely prospects for the two linebacking slots. Ward, a 6-0, 210-pound senior from Cincinnati, Ohio, started the last two games of the year in 1981 after Shaffer suffered a broken leg. He turned in a solid performance in the Gator Bowl. Sheppard is a 6-1, 218-pound junior from Camp Lejeune, N.C.

Also in the picture at linebacker are a pair of hard-hitting sophomores—Troy Simmons of Spring Lake, N.C. and Micah Moon of Lynch Station, Va. Both had outstanding springs. Sophomore Pat Cowan and junior Dwight Parrish supply added depth.

Although strong safety Bill Jackson has graduated, the secondary still returns five players who started at one time or another last season. Heading up this group is Poole, who was selected a third-team All-America by The Football News. The 6-1, 200-pound senior from China Grove, N.C. had three interceptions last year and returned two for touchdowns. He also broke up seven other passes. In addition to being a good pass defender at left cornerback, he has the size to give solid support against the run.

Expected to join Poole as starters are cornerback Walter Black, a 5-10, 171-pound junior from Kernersville, N.C.; free safety Sammy Johnson, a 6-0, 179-pound senior from Reading, Pa.; and strong safety Willie Harris, a 6-1, 185-pound junior from Wilson, N.C.

Black opened last season as the starting free safety, but was moved to cornerback after an injury sidelined Darryl Lucas. He doesn't have great size, but makes up for that with quickness, speed and intelligence. He led the Tar Heels with six interceptions. He also did an excellent job on specialty teams, blocking two kicks.

Johnson was Carolina's fourth-leading tackler despite the fact he did not become a starter until the fifth game of the season. Harris got game experience while Jackson was injured.

Other important players in the secondary could be Lucas, who has the ability to win back his starting job; cornerback Stanley Pugh, who had an outstanding spring; and sophomores Steve Hendrickson and Barry James, who figure to play behind Johnson and Harris.

A major concern is the kicking game. Gone is All-ACC punter Jeff Hayes who also did a superb job of kicking off last season. The new Tar Heel punter will probably be one of three walk-ons — David Lowe, Mark Lazarus or Rob Rogers. Brooks Barwick should do a good job of handling short field goals and extra points. However, Crum is still looking for a long-range field goal kicker and someone to kick off.

Poole is a fine punt returner. He finished eighth in the nation last year with a 12.0 yards-per-return average. Carolina would like to improve its kickoff returns. The Tar Heels averaged just 19.3 yards per return last season.

If capable kickers can be found, the Tar Heels should again do a good job of covering kicks. Carolina was eighth nationally in net punting last season and allowed opponents just 16.1 yards per kickoff return.

"The strengths of this team should be our experience and an excellent senior class," says Crum in summation. "Those seniors should provide us with excellent leadership."

One senior could provide Carolina with its first Heisman Trophy. Bryant is that talented. His presence alone makes the offense an explosive one. If the defense plays with the intensity Crum's defenses have displayed in the past, Carolina should again be a major factor on the national scene.

Greg Poole brings back a punt.

What Crum Says About:

THE '82 SEASON

"It's a brand new season. Anything that we've accomplished in the past, other than giving us pride and stability, is not going to help us this year. We will have to earn everything we get. If anything, our past record will cause people to come at us harder. Our kids are going to have to approach this season with the right attitude and I think they will."

KELVIN BRYANT

"There isn't much I can say about him that hasn't already been said. He's one of the great players in America. He's a premier runner with tremendous acceleration. He's a complete back in that he catches the ball well and is also a good blocker.

"He may appear to tire some at times, but on every play he's going full speed. That's why we like to rest him. If we simply leave him in the game and give the ball to somebody else, he's not going to get a breather. He's going to be looking for somebody to block.

"Kelvin has had a fine career here. He's had some adversities, but has come back from them. That's why it would be particularly satisfying for me to see him have a big senior season. He's a very deserving young man."

DAVID DRECHSLER

"In addition to having the physical tools to be an outstanding lineman, David has a couple of things you can't teach—intelligence and experience. That's why he was a first-team All-America last year. He's a fifth-year player and that may be one reason he's a very mature player. He's a good leader, too—a person who leads by example."

THE OFFENSE

"We can have a good offense. However, people shouldn't expect explosions like we had last year. There were a lot of factors involved in that. We got excellent field position in the early games last year and were able to take advantage of that.

"Scoring so much early in the year actually hurt us later in the season. We didn't work enough on our passing game early because we didn't want to appear to be running up the score on people. Because of that we weren't as effective throwing the ball down the stretch as we would have liked. However, I don't think we are going to be in a position to worry about that this year."

GREG POOLE

"He's a heady player, a guy who is tough and aggressive... an excellent hitter. He's a guy who can play with pain and still play well. His intelligence really helps us on defense. Plus, he has fine instincts for returning punts. He's made some big plays for us in his time here."

WILLIAM FULLER

"He was a dominant force for us last year. Considering his lack of experience going into the year, his 1981 season was really amazing. He has the speed and quickness to make plays most linemen could never come close to making. He's a little bit bigger this year, but that hasn't effected his quickness. He's an excellent lineman and we're counting on another big year from him."

THE DEFENSE

"I think our defense will be improved. We played so many young people last year. We'll be more experienced this season, especially in the secondary. I think one of the keys to our defense is the experience our down linemen now have. They have the ability to change the complexion of a game. I think our pass rush will be improved over a year ago."

SPRING PRACTICE

"Spring is a time for trying to teach and work on fundamentals. We want to use that time to eliminate mental errors and familiarize our young people with our system. We want to improve basic skills and the players' intelligence on the field. I think we accomplished a lot of those things during the past spring."

CONCERNS ABOUT '82

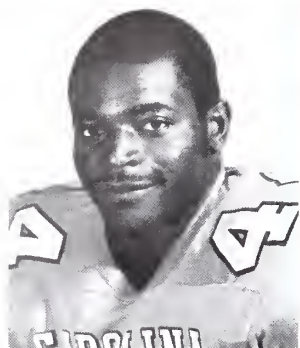

"A lot has been made about this football team already. I just hope our fans don't expect too much. These are college students and certainly they'll play as hard as they can. But, there are going to be days when things don't go right. Certainly, I want people to be excited and enthusiastic about our team. However, I just don't want them to have unreasonable expectations.

"Another major concern is having to open the season with Pittsburgh, probably the number one team in the country. This could be the best team Pitt has had since coming back to national prominence in the mid-'70's."

The Tar Heels

Kelvin Bryant
Tailback
6-2, 195, Senior
Tarboro, N.C.

Perhaps the finest back in college football... Rates as a strong candidate for the Heisman Trophy after an incredible junior season... Has made all of the pre-season All-America teams... One of six players selected to take part in the annual NCAA/ABC Football Promotion Tour during the past summer... Earned that honor with a sensational 1981 season... Rushed for 1,015 yards and scored 18 touchdowns... Accomplished that despite missing four complete games with a knee injury... Appeared in only 22 of Carolina's 44 quarters last year— half of a season... Opened the year by rushing for 211 yards on 19 carries against East Carolina and scoring six touchdowns... Left that game with 7:14 to go in the third period... The six touchdowns were a new Atlantic Coast Conference single-game record, breaking the old mark of five held by Carolina's Don McCauley and Stan Fritts of N.C. State... The following week against Miami of Ohio, Bryant had 29 carries for 136 yards and five touchdowns... Again, he played less than three quarters... His 11 touchdowns in the first two weeks of the season set an all-time NCAA record for most points by an individual in two consecutive games... Had 173 yards on 22 carries and scored four times the next week against Boston College, again without playing in the fourth quarter... Thus, in his first three games Bryant had 15 touchdowns and 520 yards rushing... He was the national scoring leader and third in the country in rushing at that time... In three games he was already over halfway to the NCAA single-season touchdown record of 29 set by Penn State's Lydell Mitchell...

However, he suffered a knee injury in the first quarter of Carolina's fourth game at Georgia Tech... Underwent arthroscopic surgery the following day for removal of torn cartilage... Also had a sprained ligament in the knee... A return to action last season was listed as doubtful by doctors... But, Bryant went through diligent rehabilitation and returned to practice the week of the Clemson game... Having missed four games, he saw only limited action against the Tigers... Obviously not 100 percent, he gained just 31 yards on 13 carries... Followed that up with a 171-yard effort at Virginia... Then in the season finale at Duke, he ran for a career-high 247 yards to reach the 1,000-yard rushing mark for the second straight year... That 247 yards was the fourth-best single-game performance in school history and the sixth-best ever in the ACC... Averaged 6.7 yards per rush for the year... No other player with 1,000 yards had that high an average... Only players in America to equal his 18 touchdowns were Marcus Allen of Southern Cal (23), Herschel Walker of Georgia (20), Eric Dickerson of SMU (19) and Buford Jordan of McNeese State (18)... Bryant, however, was not listed among the national leaders because he did not appear in 75 percent of his team's games... His 108 points was the third-highest total ever at Carolina and the most ever scored by a junior... Bryant's 145 yards-per-game rushing average was the fourth best in the country behind Allen, Walker and Richmond's Barry Redden... His average would have been higher except for his brief appearances against Georgia Tech and Clemson... Named National Back of the Week by the Associated Press for his play against East Carolina and Duke... Sports Illustrated's National Player of the Week for the Boston College game... Had also been AP's National Player of the Week for the 1980 season finale against Duke... Thus, in his last eight regular-season games, he has been somebody's National Player of the Week four times... Easy selection to the All-ACC team... Capped 1981 by rushing for 148 yards in the Gator Bowl against Arkansas... He and Ethan Horton were named co-MVPs in that game...

Bryant had his brilliant junior year after a dazzling sophomore season... Although he did not start he shared the tailback spot with Amos Lawrence... Splitting time there, he still gained 1,039 yards rushing... Averaged 94.5 yards per game to finish third in the ACC and 27th in the nation in rushing... Scored 12 touchdowns... No Tar Heel sophomore has ever scored more... Was second in the ACC in all-purpose running, third in scoring and ninth in total offense... Accomplished all that despite averaging just 16 carries a game... His 5.9 yards-per-rush average was the best in the league... All-ACC selection... Rushed for 100 yards seven times that year... Top performance of the season was a 199-yard effort against Duke in the final game... Had a 44-yard run late in that game to push him over 1,000 yards... He and Lawrence were named co-National Players of the Week by the AP after that game... With Lawrence running for 1,118 yards that same year, Bryant and Amos became only the 11th teammates to hit the 1,000 mark in the same season... Had an 81-yard scoring run against Virginia, the sixth longest run from scrimmage in school history... Finished that game with 111 yards... Named ABC's Player of the Game after running for 138 yards in a 24-19 televised win at Clemson... Had 105 yards against Furman in the season opener, 112 against Georgia Tech, 108 against N.C. State and 107 against East Carolina... Scored three touchdowns against Furman... Turned a short pass into a 58-yard scoring play to beat Texas Tech, 9-3... Gained 82 yards on 15 carries against Texas in the Bluebonnet Bowl and scored one touchdown...

Missed most of his freshman season with a separated shoulder... Gained 149 yards on 42 carries that fall... Was Carolina's leading rusher with 78 yards in a win over Pittsburgh... Was injured at Army the following week and missed the next six games... Came back to have an outstanding spring in 1980... Won the Blue-White Game, 23-20, with a 46-yard touchdown catch as the horn sounded... Has been nothing but sensational ever since...

Has now completely recovered from last year's knee injury... Doctors say he is right at 100 percent... Has awesome talent... Can do anything on the football field... A super athlete... A 9.3 sprinter who is a tough inside runner... Carolina's top big-play threat since Charlie Justice... Capable of beating an opponent in so many ways... Made great strides as a blocker and receiver last spring... Coaches say he is now an even more complete player than last year... Has tremendous instincts... Coupled with his great, great speed, that makes him a scoring threat from anywhere on the field... His feet never quit moving... Gives 100 percent all the time... Great attitude and work habits... Always does an excellent job in practice... Coachable young man who wants to excel... Quiet and almost shy off the field, but cooperative with the media... Understands his responsibilities to the public... Despite his individual accomplishments, Bryant is unselfish and team-oriented... Goes into his senior season with 2,203 yards (the fifth-highest total in school history) and 186 points (sixth-highest ever)... Has compiled those figures while playing in 23 games and just parts of many of those... Another in a long line of standout Tar Heel tailbacks...

Came to Carolina after a great career at Tarboro High... Scored 24 touchdowns as a senior, running for 1,420 yards... Had one game in which he rushed for 297 yards and only touched the ball once in the second half... Ran for over 1,400 yards as a junior and scored 19 times... Split time between the varsity and jayvees as a sophomore... Ran 65 yards for a touchdown the first time he touched the ball in a varsity game... Finished that game with 159 yards... Asked to rejoin the junior varsity after that so he could help win a conference championship... Was the state 100-yard dash champion as a junior and ran a 9.29 as a senior... Won the 220 and long jump as a senior... Also a fine basketball player... Once held Dominique Wilkins to six points in a game... Played in the Shrine Bowl and the East-West All-Star Game... Majoring in recreation... Born September 26, 1960.

Tyrone Anthony
Tailback
6-1, 201, Junior
Pfafftown, N.C.

Carolina's second-leading rusher last year... Will once again see plenty of action this season... Set to battle Ethan Horton for the backup tailback job behind Kelvin Bryant... Heads into the fall after a super showing in spring practice... Made improvement in all phases of play... Much tougher inside runner in the spring... Has all the physical tools... Has good speed and strength... In addition, he's an excellent technician... Does everything the correct way... Best pass catcher of the backs... Takes great pride in his receiving... Has excellent hands and runs very good routes... Should give the Tar Heels excellent depth at tailback... Opened the 1981 season as Bryant's backup... However, moved into a starting role after Bryant was injured in the fourth game of the year... Started three games at mid-season against Wake Forest, N.C. State and South Carolina... Rushed for 224 yards on 26 carries in his first start against the Deacons and also scored two touchdowns... Named Atlantic Coast Conference Player of the Week for his performance in that game... His 224 yards that day was the second-highest total by an ACC back all year, the 12th best in conference history and the sixth-highest ever at Carolina... It was the most yards ever gained by a Tar Heel sophomore... Followed that with a 183-yard effort at N.C. State... Rushed for 52 yards in his third start against South Carolina before being sidelined in the fourth quarter with a groin pull... Caught a 20-yard TD pass from Scott Stankavage with 1:20 to play to give Carolina a 17-10 win at Maryland... Finished sixth in the league in rushing, averaging 63.5 yards per game... Had 699 yards on 146 carries, averaging 4.8 yards per rush... Caught 14 passes for 165 yards and two TDs... Tied for seventh in the league in scoring with 48 points... Rushed three times for 17 yards in the Gator Bowl against Arkansas before being sidelined with a neck injury... Bounced back from that to have his impressive spring... Was the leading ground-gainer in the spring game with 132 yards on 17 carries... Had seen only spot action with the varsity as a freshman, gaining just 57 yards on 16 carries... Played in all three junior varsity games that year... Top performance there came against Massanutten Academy... Ran for 229 yards on 23 carries that day and scored four touchdowns... Came to Carolina after a great prep career at West Forsyth... Suffered a knee injury in his senior year there, but still gained 887 yards in just over six games and was Forsyth County Player of the Year... High school All-America on teams selected by Parade Magazine, Scholastic Coach and the National High School Coaches Association... Played in the Shrine Bowl and the East-West All-Star Game... Won the Winston-Salem/Forsyth County Board of Education Sports Recognition Award as a senior... Majoring in RTVMP... Born March 3, 1962.

Willy Austin
Offensive Tackle
6-5, 255, Sophomore
Hudson, N.C.

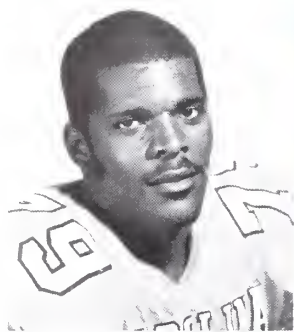

Goes into the fall as a backup at right tackle... Could challenge for the starting job at that spot... Got some varsity work last fall as a reserve... Did a good job in the spring, but missed some practice time with an injury... A quality person... Hard worker who is determined to play... Very intelligent young man... Always in the right place at the right time... Coachable... Has improved his strength in his time here... Going to be a fine player... Was a two-way tackle at South Caldwell High... An All-Western 4-A selection both ways... Team captain as a senior... Started on defense in the Shrine Bowl and also played in the East-West All-Star Game... Earned three letters in football and basketball and one in track and baseball... In the general college at Carolina... Born October 24, 1962.

Brooks Barwick
Kicking Specialist
5-11, 176, Junior
Clinton, N.C.

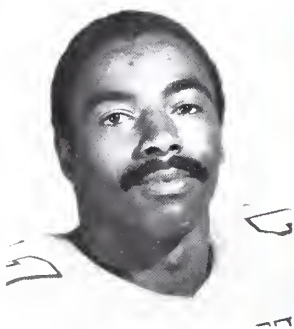

Kicked Carolina's short field goals last season... Expected to handle that same job plus extra points this fall... Made six of eight field goals a year ago... Was successful on kicks of 33, 35, 35, 22, 26 and 34 yards... His 35-yarders came against Wake Forest and Maryland... Injured a knee in practice prior to the Gator Bowl, but still booted a 31-yard FG... Had torn cartilage removed after that game... Was successful on his last five field goal attempts... A conventional kicker with good accuracy... Did a good job in spring practice... Seemed more confident than he did last year... Missed all of the 1980 season because of injuries suffered in a motorcycle accident... Kicked for the junior varsity three years ago... Good all-around athlete who came to Carolina without a scholarship... All-metro as a senior at Episcopal High in Alexandria, Va... All-conference as both a junior and a senior... Also was a pole vaulter there... Majoring in business... Born January 29, 1961.

Wendelle Battle
Defensive Tackle
6-4, 255, Junior
Washington, D.C.

Can be a factor as a backup this fall... More than adequate in that role... Lettered as a reserve last year... Saw a great deal of action at Georgia Tech... Played in the first nine games before breaking an arm in practice prior to the Virginia game... Missed the rest of the season... That injury kept him out of contact work during spring practice... Went through all the other off-season drills, however... A hard worker who knows what he must do to play... Spent a lot of time on conditioning in the off-season... Has improved his stamina... Still needs to work on that some more... Has good quickness, but needs a little better speed... Running and weight-lifting programs have been a big help to him... Has good work habits and wants to do well... Great attitude... Being counted on to contribute more this fall than he did last year... Experience he gained last season will be a big help... Had been a jayvee player in 1980... Won two letters in football at Theodore Roosevelt High... Named to the All-Interhigh team as a defensive tackle... All-metro and honorable mention All-America... As a senior his team won the Interhigh West Division and city championships... Won Roosevelt High's outstanding student-athlete award as a senior... His major is industrial relations... Born May 1, 1962.

11

Walter Black
Defensive Back
5-10, 171, Junior
Kernersville, N.C.

Should contend for all-conference honors in his junior season... Did an outstanding job last fall... Was asked to do more in the secondary than any other player... Saw action at three different positions... Opened the season as the starting free safety... Moved to right cornerback after Darryl Lucas was injured at Georgia Tech... Split duty between those two spots in the last half of the season... Twice he played two different positions in the same game... Used at right corner and free safety against Tech and played both cornerback positions at Virginia... Had three interceptions in that game against the Cavaliers, winning Atlantic Coast Conference Player of the Week honors... Led the Tar Heels with six interceptions... That equalled the second-highest total in the ACC... His other interceptions came against Miami, N.C. State and Maryland... His interception at Maryland came in the Tar Heel end zone with eight seconds to play, preserving a 17-10 victory... Played an outstanding all-around game at N.C. State, shadowing NFL first-round draft choice Mike Quick for most of the game... Quick had just two catches that day for 21 yards... Had 23 solo tackles last fall and 17 assists... Broke up six passes in the secondary and had two sacks... Excellent special team player... Blocked a field goal to set up a touchdown at Georgia Tech and blocked a punt to set up a TD at N.C. State... In addition to his blocked field goal, he also had eight solo tackles and five assists at Tech... Named ESPN's National Amateur Athlete of the Week for his performance in that game... Goes into the fall as the starting right cornerback... With a year of experience under his belt he seemed more confident during spring practice... Doesn't possess tremendous size, but has all the other tools to be a great defensive back... A tough kid with exceptional quickness... Good intelligence... Very coachable... Played on both the varsity and junior varsity as a freshman... An excellent student who came to Carolina as a Morehead Scholar... Got a congressional appointment to the U.S. Military Academy, but passed it up to come to Chapel Hill... Played running back, wide receiver and safety at East Forsyth High School... All city/county defensive back as a junior and senior... Leading rusher in Forsyth County as a senior with 962 yards... Had a single-game high of 274 yards... Team captain... Lettered three times in football, four times in track and twice in basketball... Member of the National Honor Society and president of student government... His dad competed in basketball, baseball and track at Alabama State... Majoring in business... Born January 25, 1962.

Brian Blados
Offensive Tackle
6-6, 290, Junior
Arlington, Va.

Has the potential to be one of the best players in the Atlantic Coast Conference... Started all 12 games at left tackle last season and did a fine job... With maturity, he got better and better throughout the season... Was sensational down the stretch last year... First-team Sophomore All-America on the squads chosen by The Football News and Blue Chips Magazine... Named to The Football News' All-Bowl Team... Reported to camp last fall at 312 pounds, but was down to 290 by the opening game... Has fine quickness for a man of his size... Teams with All-America guard David Drechsler to give Carolina great blocking on the left side of the line... Lettered in his freshman season as a backup... Played both left and right tackle that year... Has made tremendous strides as an offensive lineman in his time here... Has good knowledge of his position now... Aware of what is happening on the field at all times... Picks up things very well... Has good football intelligence... Gives a good second effort... His explosion off the ball is improving... Played tight end and defensive tackle at Washington & Lee High School... All-State as a senior and team captain... Also earned three letters in track and one in wrestling... Set school records in the spot put and discus... Majoring in recreation.

91

Jeff Blaylock
Outside Linebacker
6-3, 218, Junior
Andrews, N.C.

Heads into the fall as Aaron Jackson's backup at outside linebacker... Being counted on to see plenty of action... Lettered while playing behind Calvin Daniels at that spot last season... A jayvee player in 1980... Came to Carolina without a scholarship, but won one with his hard work... Has good quickness and speed... Hard-nosed kid who doesn't make mistakes... May not make the big play, but is very consistent... Fullback and nose guard at Andrews High... Named co-MVP in his conference... Selected for the North-South All-Star Game... Turned down a couple of scholarships to come to Carolina as a walk-on... Once gained 340 yards rushing in a high school game... Majoring in business... Born January 1, 1962.

Ike Brady
Quarterback
5-10, 180, Sophomore
Mebane, N.C.

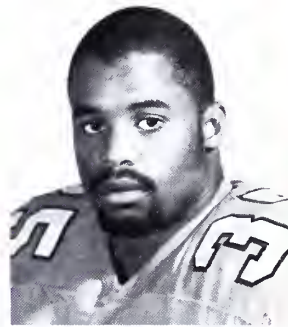

One of the surprises of spring practice... A walk-on who played wide receiver on the junior varsity last fall... Moved to quarterback (the position he played in high school) during the spring to give Carolina depth there... Has done just that and goes into the fall as the number three signal-caller... Capable of making a major contribution to the Tar Heel program... Got a lot of time and work in the spring because of injuries to Rod Elkins and Scott Stankavage... Improved a great deal... A hard worker who picks up things quickly... Has a good head and is a student of the game... Isn't blessed with great ability, but is very coachable... Completed six of 14 passes in the spring game for 110 yards... That included a 54-yard touchdown pass to Victor Harrison... An all-conference player at Eastern Alamance High School... Played in the North-South All-Star Game... Born January 13, 1963.

David Boggs
Nose Guard
6-1, 225, Sophomore
Statesville, N.C.

Ended the spring as the number three nose guard... Capable of being a pretty good player... A walk-on who saw junior varsity action last year... Did a good job in the spring work... Has excellent quickness and a great attitude... Reminds Carolina coaches of Bob Duncan, a starter at nose guard in 1979... Is bigger than Duncan, however... Tough kid and a good student.

Eddison Bramble
Tailback
5-10, 190, Sophomore
Garden City Park, N.Y.

Junior varsity player last year... Played in all four jayvee games... Top rushing performances were 81 yards on 14 carries against Ferrum and 79 yards on 14 carries against Chowan... Saw varsity action against East Carolina and Boston College... Made improvement during spring practice... Has good size and is very strong... Good blocker... Catches the ball fairly well and is a fine runner... A hard worker who can take the punishment an I-formation tailback must take... With experience, he could develop into a solid player... Tailback and outside linebacker at Mineola High... Was hampered most of his senior season there by a sprained ankle... Still was all-county, all-state and All-Long Island for the second straight year... Also named to Centenary Prep All-America and Centenary Prep Academic All-America teams... Selected a National Hall of Fame Scholar-Athlete... Ran for 1,010 yards as a junior and scored 11 touchdowns... Had five scoring runs of over 50 yards and two of over 90... Earned three letters in football and seven in track... His dad is a minister... Enrolled in Carolina's general college... Born December 9, 1962.

48

Chuck Boyette
Outside Linebacker
6-0, 208, Sophomore
Belhaven, N.C.

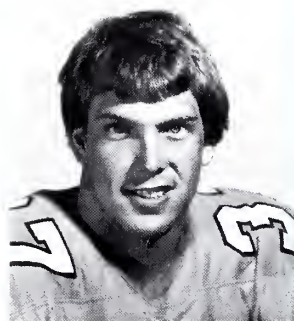

Non-scholarship player who was on the junior varsity last season... Conscientious and a hard worker... Lacks experience and quickness... Not ready to contend for playing time at this point... Center and defensive end at John A. Wilkinson High... Played in the North-South All-Star Game... Plans to major in business... Born May 12, 1963.

Ed Brown
Defensive Back
6-1, 177, Sophomore
Fuquay-Varina, N.C.

Had a good spring at right cornerback... Showed significant improvement from the beginning of the off-season drills till the end... Coachable and a hard worker... Played on the junior varsity last season... Also saw some varsity action, mainly on special teams... A potential special team player once again... Needs to improve his flexibility and secondary concepts... Will contribute this fall... A running back and safety at Fuquay-Varina High... Gained 1,204 yards as a senior there, caught 13 passes, scored 86 points and had four interceptions... All-East, all-state, all-conference and all-metro... Wake County 2-A Player of the Year as a junior and senior... Played in the Shrine Bowl and the East-West All-Star Game... Earned four letters in football and track and three in basketball and baseball... Attended Boy's State... Morehead Scholarship nominee... Enrolled in the general college... Born October 31, 1962.

Alan Burrus
Fullback
5-11, 210, Senior
Shelby, N.C.

One of the most under-rated players in the Atlantic Coast Conference... Has the all-around skills to be one of the league's premier backs... However, he must bounce back from a knee injury suffered late last season... Tore ligaments in his left knee in Carolina's 10th game of the season at Virginia... Missed the season finale at Duke, the Gator Bowl and all of spring practice... Doctors expect him to be ready to go this fall... Because he missed the spring, Burrus is listed as the backup fullback to James Jones going into the season... Has the ability to win the starting job back, however... Proved that with his outstanding junior season... Did a great job of blocking for Tar Heel tailbacks last fall... Kelvin Bryant credited the blocking of Burrus with much of his early-season success... Alan is also a fine runner himself... Had 98 carries for 463 yards, averaging 4.7 yards per rush... Top single-game effort was 93 yards on 11 carries against Clemson's tough defense... Ran for 81 yards on 18 carries at Georgia Tech... Also a good receiver, Burrus caught 12 passes a year ago... Gave Carolina the stability needed at fullback... Very consistent... A team player who understands his role... Willing to block for the tailback 30 times a game or carry the ball 30 times... Unselfish... A great leader who sets a good tempo in practice... Has all the physical tools—quickness, speed and strength... Possesses fine blocking techniques... Comes off the ball well... Good enough runner to be used at tailback if needed... Intelligent player who is a great student of the game... Had been scheduled to be the backup fullback in 1980... However, suffered a badly pulled hamstring in the pre-season and was eventually red-shirted... Started six games at cornerback in 1979 and also played a great deal on special teams... Was an offensive back as a freshman... A star halfback at Shelby High... Sparked his team to the 1976 state championship... MVP in the title game... Played in the 1977 Shrine Bowl... Active in FCA... One of the most popular athletes on the Carolina campus... Took a 700-mile bike trip from Salt Lake City to Billings, Mont. in the summer of 1981... Had scheduled a black panther hunting trip to Brazil last summer, but had to cancel it because of his knee injury... A geology major who would like to work on an oil rig... Born January 22, 1960.

Bill Bumgarner
Defensive Tackle
6-5, 240, Sophomore
High Point, N.C.

Will battle for playing time as the backup to William Fuller... Has the ability to eventually be an outstanding player... Opened the 1981 season at outside linebacker... Would have been at tackle originally except he was too light... Lost weight due to an early-season illness... Finally went to tackle the week of the Duke game... Played on the jayvees and also saw limited varsity action... A very intense competitor who wants to succeed... Tough and very active on the field... A good pass rusher... Needs to get bigger and stronger... Coaches would like to see him at 255 or 260... Missed about half the spring because of illness... Came to Carolina after a great career at High Point Central... Won all-state honors as a senior... Division Eight Player of the Year and team captain... Played on a state 4-A championship team as a junior... Played in the Shrine Bowl and the East-West All-Star Game... Member of the National Honor Society... His dad, Dwight, was a third-team All-America at Duke in 1960... Bill's brother, Tim, is a senior on the current Blue Devil squad... Enrolled in Carolina's general college... Born August 24, 1963.

Kadjol Choudhury
Defensive Back
5-11, 175, Senior
Elizabeth City, N.C.

Member of the junior varsity last year... Non-scholarship player who is a hard worker... A reserve at cornerback... Fine student... A zoology major who hopes to go to medical school... Born May 21, 1961.

34

Eddie Colson
Fullback
6-0, 240, Sophomore
Jacksonville, N.C.

Has all the tools to be a great fullback... Has speed, agility, strength and size... Capable of doing it all... Just lacks experience... Definitely will be a factor in the backfield... Runs well and blocks well... Has great acceleration for a man of his size... Played in all four junior varsity games last year, scoring five touchdowns... Top rushing performance was 91 yards on 16 carries against Ferrum... Saw brief varsity action, playing against East Carolina and Boston College... Missed a lot of the off-season work with an ankle injury... Did play in the spring game and scored one touchdown... Goes into the fall as the number three fullback... Capped a brilliant high school career by leading Jacksonville High to the state championship game as a senior... Had 221 yards on 44 carries in the state semi-finals... Finished the year with 1,801 yards and 19 touchdowns... Scored 17 TDs as a junior while rushing for 1,342 yards... Had 752 yards as a sophomore for a three-year total of 3,895... County Player of the Year as a junior and senior... Played in the Shrine Bowl and earned all-state honors... Also lettered in baseball and basketball... Member of the National Honor Society... His father is a minister... Enrolled in the general college at Carolina... Born September 8, 1963.

Pat Cowan
Linebacker
6-2, 218, Sophomore
Virginia Beach, Va.

Will eventually play at Carolina, perhaps as soon as this season... Goes into the fall as a reserve, but could see action as a role player or on special teams... Runs well... Does a good job on pass drops... That's probably his strong point right now... Learned a lot in the spring... Jayvee player last year... Played at Fork Union Military Academy and First Colonial High School... Linebacker, guard and punter on those teams... All-Tidewater, all-district, all-metro and all-region in high school... Also competed in track at First Colonial... In Carolina's general college... Born November 30, 1960.

71

Joe Conwell
Offensive Tackle
6-5, 245, Junior
Bala Cynwyd, Pa.

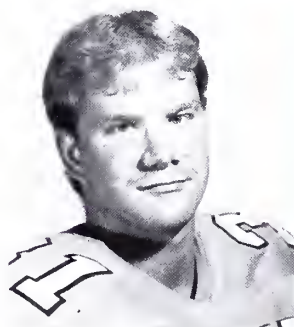

A defensive tackle last fall who was shifted to offense in the spring... Adjusted to his new position very well... Picked up things fairly quickly and ended the off-season drills as one of the top backups... Will be a solid reserve... Has good football sense... Smart player who doesn't get fooled very often... Good attitude... Lettered on defense last year... Was red-shirted in 1980... Gained size and strength in his red-shirt year... Had come to Carolina in 1979 as a 215-pound outside linebacker... Moved to tackle that season and played on the junior varsity... An all-city and all-area performer at Lower Merion High near Philadelphia... All-league and all-area in basketball... Majoring in industrial relations... Born February 24, 1961.

91

Keith Cowell
Tight End
6-1, 220, Senior
Bayboro, N.C.

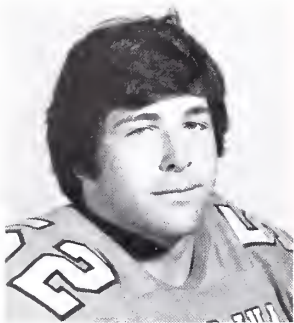

Came to Carolina as a wide receiver... Moved to tight end as a freshman and has gained 40 pounds since that switch... Has made great improvement in his time here... Progressed a lot last spring... Will get a chance to play this fall... Heads into the new season as the number three tight end... Could also be a special team player... Very diligent worker in the weight room... Strongest player at this position... All-conference in both football and basketball at Pamlico County High School... His brother, Johnny, was a tight end here in the early 1970's... Majoring in industrial relations... Born June 7, 1961.

Tim Davis
Linebacker
6-1, 195, Sophomore
Salisbury, N.C.

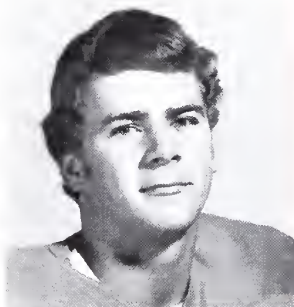

Jayvee player last season... Needs some improvement before he will be ready to contribute to the varsity... Worked hard in the spring... Linebacker, quarterback and center at West Rowan High... Switched from center to quarterback in the middle of his senior season... Played in the North-South All-Star Game... Plans to major in business... Born March 25, 1963.

Mike Donaldson
Center
6-2, 235, Sophomore
Goldsboro, N.C.

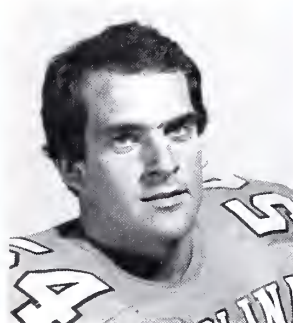

Number two center going into the fall... A natural athlete with lots of potential... Was a backup at center and guard last season... Capable of playing guard again if needed... Has all the tools to be a fine player— speed, quickness, agility and intelligence... Has excellent techniques... Understands the offense and always gives everything he has... Played offensive guard and defensive tackle at Eastern Wayne High... All-conference on both offense and defense as a senior... All-East, all-state and Centenary All-America... Started at offensive guard in the Shrine Bowl... Also played in the East-West All-Star Game... Lettered three years each in football and wrestling... Enrolled in the general college at Carolina... Born March 13, 1963.

Brian Donnalley
Offensive Guard
6-5, 220, Sophomore
Raleigh, N.C.

Will open fall practice as one of the backups to Ron Spruill at right guard... Has a lot of talent... Just needs to gain some more weight... Needs to weigh about 240... Has the frame to carry that weight... Will be a factor once he gets bigger... One of the team's best technicians... Picks up things quickly... Intelligent and capable of adjusting on the run... Quite coachable... Needs experience and more self-confidence... Played offensive tackle, defensive tackle and defensive end at Athens High... All-conference and all-metro... Played in the East-West All-Star Game... Holds the Athens pole vault record at 12-6... His brother, Rick, was a second-team All-America center at Carolina in 1980... Enrolled in Carolina's general college... Born April 1, 1963.

David Drechsler
Offensive Guard
6-4, 250, Senior
Cleveland, N.C.

Here is one of the premier players in college football... Another in a long line of standout offensive linemen at Carolina... Could be the best of them all... First-team All-America selection on the squad chosen by the Football Writers Association of America last year... Second-team pick by The Football News... A finalist for the Outland Trophy... Has made all of the pre-season All-America checklists this season... Member of both the All-ACC and the All-ACC Academic teams last fall... Second-team Academic All-America... Was the first Tar Heel junior to win first-team All-America honors since Charlie Justice and Art Weiner in 1948... His blocking at left guard played a major role in Tar Heel tailbacks rushing for 2,179 yards and scoring 29 touchdowns in 1981... Most consistent performer in an outstanding offensive line... A truly great lineman... An excellent all-around athlete... A tremendous technician who is physically and mentally tough... Came back from two knee operations to have his banner junior season... A positive and intense person... Has great initial quickness off the ball... Excellent body balance... Very good feet... Has the height and weight one looks for in an offensive lineman... Great explosion on contact and good follow-through... That explosiveness and his aggressiveness make him an outstanding straight-ahead blocker... Speed and quickness make him effective on sweeps... Carolina tries to get him to the point of attack as often as possible... Also an excellent pass protector... A super competitor who gets better every day... Comes early to practice and stays late... A leader by example... Very intelligent... Picks up things quickly... Has a good attitude and a great desire to play... Versatile enough to play any of the five interior blocking positions... Played all five at one time or another during the 1980 season... Has started Carolina's last 23 games... That streak includes all 12 of last year's games, the last 10 regular-season games in 1980 and the 1980 Bluebonnet Bowl... Came to Carolina in the fall of 1978 as a freshman... Injured a knee in the pre-season and did not play at all... Got an extra year of eligibility because of that... Played as a backup in 1979... Started the Clemson game at right guard that year, but suffered a knee injury on the game's second play... Missed the last two regular-season games and the Gator Bowl game with Michigan... Bounced back to have a solid sophomore season... Started 10 times at tackle in 1980 and once at left guard because of an injury to Ron Wooten... Shifted permanently to left guard in the spring of 1981... End, guard and tackle at West Rowan High School... Played in the Shrine Bowl and the East-West All-Star Game... Excellent student who is majoring in business... Selected to participate with eight other football players from across the country in the 1982 NCAA/Fiesta Bowl drug education television promotion program... Flew to Phoenix last May to tape TV messages... Born July 18, 1960.

Rod Elkins
Quarterback
6-1, 205, Senior
Greensboro, N.C.

One of Carolina's top all-star candidates... Capable of being the best quarterback in the Atlantic Coast Conference and one of the finest in America... Might have been the All-ACC quarterback last fall except for a mid-season ankle injury which hampered him the last half of the year... Had been named by the league's coaches to their pre-season All-ACC team the preceding summer... A winner, pure and simple... In his two years as Carolina's starting quarterback, the Tar Heels are 21-3... When he has been healthy, Carolina's record is 20-1... Has guided his team to back-to-back Top Ten finishes in both wire service polls... No other ACC team in history has ever accomplished that... With Elkins at the controls, Carolina has led the ACC in scoring and total offense each of the past two seasons... Played well in the early part of the year last fall... Was ACC Player of the Week for his play at Georgia Tech where he scored once and threw for another TD... Tossed three touchdown passes against Boston College and again against Wake Forest... One of his scoring passes against Boston College was a 63-yarder to Mark Smith... Sprained an ankle in the season's seventh game against South Carolina... Injured in the first quarter with the Tar Heels trailing just 7-0 in a game they eventually lost, 31-13... Did not play the following week at Maryland... Came off the bench to see brief action against Clemson, but re-injured the ankle... Was able to play in the final two regular-season games and the Gator Bowl, but was not 100 percent... Still finished the year with 69 completions out of 136 attempts for 994 yards and nine touchdowns... Finished second in the ACC in passing... Had tied for the league passing lead as a sophomore with 81 completions in 160 attempts for 1,002 yards and 11 TDs... His play was a major factor in Carolina's 11-1 record that year... Had appeared in just one varsity game prior to 1980, running the final three plays at Army in a 41-3 victory in 1979... First moved into the starting role in the pre-season of 1980 after an injury sidelined his chief competitor, Chuck Sharpe... However, Elkins quickly proved he deserved the job... His 1,002 yards in the air that year were the most ever by a Tar Heel sophomore... Top passing game was a 13 for 21 performance against Georgia Tech... Threw for 201 yards that day and three touchdowns... Named ACC Player of the Week for that performance... Threw for two TDs each against Wake Forest and N.C. State... Completed 11 of 18 passes for 121 yards against Texas in the Bluebonnet Bowl... Named a second-team Sophomore All-America by The Football News...

Has a great arm... Cool under fire... Although he doesn't carry the ball much, he is a good runner... Very dangerous as a scrambler... Being counted on heavily for a great senior year... His experience and time under center are great assets... There is no substitute for that kind of experience... Has a certain charisma... Doesn't lead by talking, but is a take-charge kind of a guy... There is no question in the Carolina huddle about who's running the show... Had an excellent spring... Improved a great deal on his decision-making... Also improved his recognition of defenses... Made progress on techniques were needed... Was fully recovered from his 1981 ankle injury... Completed 16 of 33 passes in the spring game for 310 yards and three touchdowns... Two of those TDs were a 49-yard pass to Larry Griffin and a 58-yard play to Earl Winfield... A pro prospect... Outstanding all-around athlete at Greensboro Grimsley High School... All-conference in football, basketball and baseball as a senior... Took his team to the state football playoffs as both a junior and senior... Also led his basketball team to two straight state tournaments... Excellent shortstop in baseball... Majoring in industrial relations... Born July 18, 1961.

Steve Fortson
Nose Guard
6-2, 240, Junior
Dayton, Ohio

Started every game at nose guard last season and did a good job... Was Carolina's sixth-leading tackler with 40 solo hits and 23 assists... Had 11 tackles for losses, including three sacks... Played very well against N.C. State and Clemson... Had five solo tackles, including a sack at State... Made seven solo tackles and assisted on three others against Clemson... Also played very well in the second half of the Gator Bowl against Arkansas... Had gotten only limited playing time at the line of scrimmage in 1980... Played some on special teams, recording one tackle and two assists... Came to Carolina in 1979, but did not play that season because of a shoulder injury... Got an extra year of eligibility because of that... Really came into prominence in the spring of 1981 when he won the starting nose guard job... Also had a fine spring last year... Was outstanding the last three weeks of the off-season drills... Has great strength and good quickness... Has matured a great deal mentally and physically in the last year... Good athlete who needs to play with a little more consistency... Being counted on for another fine season this fall... All-league performer at Alter High School in Dayton... Also wrestled there... Likes to cook... Majoring in sociology... Born March 10, 1961.

Chip Foushee
Linebacker
6-2, 198, Sophomore
Roxboro, N.C.

Member of the junior varsity last fall... A good student who is also pretty smart on the field... Understands the total Tar Heel defense... A non-scholarship player who was injured in his senior year at Person High... Is behind some of the other players at this position because of that... All-conference linebacker in 1979... Hopes to go to law school... Born March 23, 1963.

William Fuller
Defensive Tackle
6-3, 245, Junior
Chesapeake, Va.

Expected to challenge for All-America honors in just his junior season... Had an outstanding sophomore year... All-Atlantic Coast Conference selection in his first year as a starter... Named the nation's top sophomore defensive player by The Football News... Also picked to the Sophomore All-America team chosen by Blue Chips Magazine... Carolina's leading tackler last fall with 60 solo hits and 24 assists... Great speed and quickness allowed him to make 22 tackles for losses... That equalled the most by any player in Dick Crum's time at Carolina... Lawrence Taylor also had 22 in 1980... Fuller had nine quarterback sacks, deflected two passes, caused two fumbles and recovered one... Had 12 tackles and two assists in the season opener against East Carolina and simply proceeded to get better each week... Was sensational against Wake Forest with five tackles for losses, including two sacks... Had four tackles for losses, including three sacks, against national champion Clemson... Finished that game with eight solo hits and three assists... Had nine solo tackles at Georgia Tech... Made five solo tackles at Maryland and kept constant pressure on Terp quarterbacks... Four times he chased Maryland passers out of the pocket and on two other occasions he forced hurried throws... He also had four tackles behind the line of scrimmage that day... Named ACC Player of the Week after knocking down two passes, forcing four hurried throws and recording two sacks at Duke... Accomplished that despite the fact he missed practice that week with an ankle sprain... Did a good job against Arkansas in the Gator Bowl... Had played on the junior varsity as a freshman... Gained valuable experience on the scout team that year while playing against All-America guard Ron Wooten and second-team All-America center Rick Donnalley in practice... Now he has a chance to join them as an All-America performer... Plays with great intensity... Possesses great quickness... Tough and very conscientious... Extremely coachable... Wants to be a great player and works hard at it... Still needs to get a little bigger... Has all the tools to be one of Carolina's all-time great defenders if he continues to improve... Lettered twice in football and twice in track at Indian River High School... That's the same school which produced Mike Voight, the former Tar Heel tailback who was twice

ACC Player of the Year... Fuller was All-Tidewater, all-metro, all-city, all-state and Centenary All-America... Majoring in industrial relations... Born March 8, 1962.

6-1, 218, Junior
Williamston, N.C.

Saw considerable action last year as a reserve at outside linebacker and as a special team player... Expected to be used in those roles again in 1982... Goes into the fall as Mike Wilcher's backup, a job he held last year... Started the Virginia game because of an injury to Wilcher and responded with three solo tackles and six assists... Finished the season with 13 tackles and eight assists... Did an excellent job on special teams... Also was a special team player as a freshman... A solid, all-around athlete... Has good speed and quickness... Very intelligent player... Disciplined and a good technician... Stronger than he was last season... Has made more progress strength-wise than any other outside linebacker in the past year... Has good explosiveness... Very coachable young man... Hampered most of last spring by a groin injury... Played fullback and linebacker at Williamston High... Gained over 800 yards rushing as a senior and averaged 12 solo tackles a game... Twice an all-conference and all-area selection... Played in the East-West All-Star Game... Majoring in industrial relations... Born November 25, 1962.

Why Tar Heels?

University of North Carolina athletic teams are known as the Tar Heels because North Carolina is "The Tar Heel State."

The nickname is said to have been applied to the area's residents as long ago as the Revolutionary War. The production of tar and turpentine was a major industry in the state at that time. Legend has it that British generals noticed barefooted natives with tar on their heels and first used the soubriquet.

Others say the nickname was acquired during the Civil War. Supposedly during one particular battle the Southern forces were being routed. Only the North Carolina brigade was not retreating. Legend has it that Robert E. Lee remarked to one of his officers, "Look at those North Carolina boys. They're holding their ground like they have tar on their heels."

Larry Griffin
Wide Receiver
6-0, 179, Sophomore
Chesapeake, Va.

A pleasant surprise during the 1981 season... Did an excellent job at flanker in his first year at that position... Came to Carolina as a quarterback, but asked to be moved to wide receiver in pre-season practice... When injuries sidelined some of the other Tar Heel wide-outs, Griffin got a lot of work in practice... Took advantage of that and moved up on the depth chart... Started a couple of games early in the year... Hampered by nagging injuries the last half of the season... Saw a great deal of action since Carolina alternates its receivers to bring in plays... Had 10 catches for 191 yards and three touchdowns... That's the most receptions ever by a Tar Heel freshman... Had TD catches of 16 yards against Miami, 25 against Wake Forest and 19 against South Carolina... Made two big plays in the Clemson game to help the Tar Heels get inside the Tiger 10-yard line... Carolina's most consistent wide receiver last year... Griffin and Ethan Horton were voted the team's top freshman players... Has made great strides considering his time at this position... Has excellent hands... Needs to improve his blocking skills... Missed two weeks of spring practice with an injury... Played well in the spring game, however... Had four catches in that game for 103 yards, including a 49-yard TD reception... Goes into the fall as the number two split end, but will again see plenty of action... Has the ability to be a superb wide receiver as he gains more and more experience... An All-Eastern Region, all-city, all-district and all-metro quarterback at Great Bridge High... Threw for 18 touchdowns and scored 10 as a two-year starter there... Played on two district championship teams... Won two letters in football, basketball and baseball... Enrolled in Carolina's general college... Born January 11, 1963.

30

Willie Harris
Defensive Back
6-1, 185, Junior
Wilson, N.C.

Set to start at strong safety after being the top backup there for two years... Saw a lot of action last year... Started against Maryland, Clemson and Virginia because of injuries to Bill Jackson... Played very well against the Terps and Tigers... Had three tackles, including one for a loss, and three assists against Clemson... Also did a good job on special teams... One of the toughest players on the Tar Heel team... A great hitter... Made big hits all spring... Has good instincts and a lot of savvy... Understands coverages well... Always tough against the run, he has improved his play against the pass... Speed and quickness have improved over a year ago... Hard work has paid off in those areas... His overall play has improved significantly in the past year... Very coachable and has a great attitude... Played safety and wide receiver at James B. Hunt High... All-conference and all-area for three straight seasons... Two-time all-area selection in basketball and sectional qualifier in 400 in track... Wilson Daily Times' High School Athlete of the Year as a senior... Major is industrial relations... Born April 6, 1962.

Victor Harrison
Wide Receiver
5-9, 180, Senior
Henderson, N.C.

Goes into the fall as Carolina's starting split end... Has shown flashes of brilliance in his first three years... Could be one of the ACC's best receivers... Just needs consistency... Capable of the big play... Had a great catch in the Boston College game last year for a touchdown... Had two TD receptions in that game, covering eight and 10 yards... Finished the year with seven catches for 92 yards... Alternated at flanker and split end... Did a good job last spring... Had a 54-yard touchdown catch in the spring game... First came into prominence at mid-season of 1980... Was Carolina's second-leading receiver that year with 16 catches for 210 yards and three touchdowns... All of those receptions came in the Tar Heels' last nine games... Started the last half of that season at flanker... Voted ACC Player of the Week for his performance against N.C. State that year... Had four catches for 50 yards that day and two touchdowns... His scoring plays covered 22 and 11 yards... His other TD catch was an eight-yard reception against Georgia Tech... Saw only limited varsity action as a freshman... Scored four touchdowns in a jayvee game against Duke that year and had a fifth called back because of a penalty... Had five catches in that game for 71 yards and three TDs... Other score came on an 88-yard kickoff return... Has very good speed... Has the ability to get open and excellent moves once he catches the football... Returned 13 kickoffs for touchdowns at John Graham High School... Also competed in basketball, baseball and track there... MVP in four sports as a senior... All-state in football... Majoring in RTVMP... Wants to be a sportscaster... Born February 9, 1961.

Steve Hendrickson
Defensive Back
6-0, 165, Sophomore
Danville, Va.

Saw considerable action in his freshman season... Was the Tar Heels' nickel back and backup free safety... Will be used in those roles again this year... A good athlete... Very intelligent... Did not make normal freshman mistakes... Has fine instincts and a good concept of the Carolina defense... Needs to be physically stronger... Has worked on that in the off-season... Three-year secondary starter at George Washington High School... Had eight career interceptions, including a 75-yard return for a touchdown as a senior... All-South, all-state and honorable mention All-America as a senior... His teams won three straight Western District championships and had a three-year regular-season record of 27-1... Played in the East-West All-Star Game... Vice-president of the National Honor Society... Graduated fourth in his class with a 96.4 average... Other George Washington graduates include current Carolina linebacker Dwight Parrish and former Tar Heel star Buddy Curry... Enrolled in the general college at Carolina... Born December 18, 1962.

as a senior... Co-captain and most valuable player in the Shrine Bowl... Also played in the East-West All-Star Game... In Carolina's general college... Born December 19, 1962.

Lee Ickes
Defensive Tackle
6-1, 250, Senior
Wheelersburg, Ohio

Capable of playing all three down positions in the defensive line and playing them well... Heads into the 1982 season as a backup to William Fuller... Started the Duke game last season because of an injury to Fuller... A hard worker who has gained 15 pounds since last season... Tough and intelligent... Hustles and is quite consistent... Saw limited varsity action in his first two years, playing mainly on the jayvee team... All-state linebacker at Wheelersburg High... Conference lineman of the year as a senior there... Majoring in recreation... Born December 26, 1960.

Ethan Horton
Tailback
6-4, 214, Sophomore
Kannapolis, N.C.

One of the best young players in college football... Opened the 1981 season as Carolina's number three quarterback... Shifted to tailback after Tyrone Anthony was injured in the South Carolina game... Started the following week at Maryland and gained 94 yards on 26 carries... Scored Carolina's first touchdown that day on a one-yard plunge... ACC Rookie of the Week for that performance... Finished the year with 144 yards rushing on 40 carries... Rushed for 144 yards on 27 carries in the Gator Bowl against Arkansas... Scored two touchdowns on runs of one and four yards... Saw considerable action that night because of leg cramps suffered by Kelvin Bryant... Horton and Bryant were named co-MVPs in the game... Was given an opportunity to move back to quarterback last spring, but chose to remain at tailback... A superb athlete who is going to improve as he learns more about this position... Big and strong... A very physical runner... Breaks tackles and is very difficult to bring down... Just needs to learn how to run... Lacks a running back's experience... With that experience, he will be a truly outstanding player... A fine blocker considering most of his career has been spent at quarterback... Did a good job in spring practice... Listed with Anthony as a co-backup to Bryant heading into the fall... Will get plenty of playing time... Had a great prep career at A.L. Brown High... Named to every all-state team as a senior... Selected to Centenary, Adidas and Carnation All-America teams... Guided his team to records of 7-3 as a sophomore, 11-1 as a junior and 9-1

Aaron Jackson
Outside Linebacker
6-3, 235, Sophomore
Washington, D.C.

Scheduled to start at the outside linebacker spot vacated by Calvin Daniels... Played behind Daniels at that position last year... Also did a good job on special teams... Finished the year with 17 tackles and four assists... Has great natural ability... Capable of making the big play... Big and strong... His size allowed him to be used at tackle in some situations last season... Has fine speed... Made good improvement in spring practice... Much more consistent in the spring than he had been in the fall... However, had to undergo arthroscopic surgery on a knee after the completion of the off-season drills... Should be 100 percent this fall though... Had missed the entire 1980 season with a knee injury... Got a hardship ruling and an extra year of eligibility because of that... Tight end, linebacker and running back at Bullis School... All-metro and conference player of the year as a senior... Intercepted three passes that year, blocked four kicks, caused five fumbles and had 11 quarterback sacks... Earned two letters in football, basketball and track... Conference's top rebounder as a senior... Set school record in the 440-yard dash and also ran on 440-relay team... Majoring in psychology... Born March 16, 1961.

Barry James
Defensive Back
5-10, 174, Sophomore
Middletown, Ohio

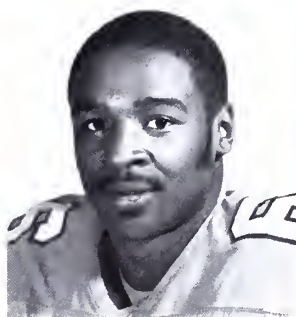

Finished the spring as the number two strong safety... Started slowly in the spring, but finished strong... Has all the physical tools to play... A tough hitter... Just needs experience and a better concept of Carolina's defensive scheme... Could help in the secondary this fall... Also being counted on as a special team player... Did a good job in that area last season... Two-year starter at linebacker and wide receiver at Middletown High... Won three letters... Had one game where he made 15 solo tackles and blocked a punt with which he scored... Two-year starter in basketball and also lettered twice in track... Ran the final leg on the Ohio state championship 880 relay team... Won All-America honors in track... Enrolled in Carolina's general college... Born November 15, 1961.

Larry James
Defensive Back
5-10, 170, Sophomore
Middletown, Ohio

Backup at left cornerback going into the fall... Good athlete... Has everything needed to be an outstanding defensive back... Just lacks experience... Instincts and concepts of defensive secondary play must improve... Got a lot of work in spring practice and showed good improvement... Being counted on as a special team player this fall as he was last year... Recovered a fumbled punt at the Maryland 20-yard line to set up the winning touchdown against the Terps last season... That recovery came with just 1:26 left in the game and the score tied... It was his recovery of a fumbled punt in the Gator Bowl which set up Carolina's first touchdown against Arkansas... Like his twin brother, Barry, a three-sport star at Middletown High School... Ran track and played football and basketball... Nose guard and wide receiver in football... Ran on a state championship 440 relay team and on a district championship mile relay... Enrolled in the general college at Carolina... Born November 15, 1961.

Sammy Johnson
Defensive Back
6-0, 179, Senior
Reading, Pa.

Carolina's fourth-leading tackler last fall... Had 34 solo hits and 37 assists... Started the last eight games at free safety... Moved into a regular job after starter Walter Black replaced the injured Darryl Lucas at cornerback... Had a great day at Maryland with seven tackles, three assists and his only interception of the year... A highly skilled, very active player... Capable of being an exceptional free safety... Makes a lot of tackles, but needs to improve his tackling techniques... Has good aggressiveness, but needs more consistency... Made strides in the spring... Has good work habits on the field... An excellent athlete who is quite coachable... Played as a nickel back as a sophomore... Played on special teams in his freshman year... Majoring in RTVMP.

Brian Johnston
Defensive Tackle
6-4, 255, Sophomore
Highland, Md.

Switched from center to defensive tackle in spring practice... Started the last three games of the 1981 season at center after Steve McGrew sprained an ankle at Maryland... However, coaches felt he could make a more important contribution on defense... Has the ability to give Carolina good depth at tackle... Had a good spring and goes into the fall as the top reserve behind Jack Parry... Did very well considering he was playing defense for the first time in three years... Should get even better in the fall once he gets a better feel for this position... Plays with good intensity... Has great quickness which is going to help him be a fine pass rusher... Aware of what's going on at all times... Tough and aggressive with fine strength... A hard-nosed football player... Has tremendous work habits on the practice field... Picks up things well... Coachable... A hustler with a lot of desire... Missed the entire 1980 season with a hernia... Got a hardship ruling and an extra year of eligibility... Defensive tackle and offensive guard at Glenelg High... All-metro performer in the Baltimore area... Played on county championship teams in 1977 and 1979... Lettered three times in football, twice in track and once in basketball and wrestling... RTVMP major... Born November 26, 1962.

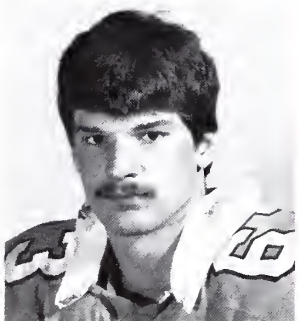

48

James Jones
Fullback
5-11, 195, Junior
Rocky Mount, N.C.

Ended the spring as the starting fullback... Saw reserve action in the first 10 games last season... Moved into the starting lineup at Duke after a knee injury sidelined Alan Burrus at Virginia... Was the lead blocker as Kelvin Bryant gained 247 yards against the Blue Devils... Played a great game in the Gator Bowl as Carolina tailbacks ran for 309 yards against Arkansas... Had 19 carries for 92 yards during the season... Scored on a one-yard plunge at Georgia Tech... A great, great blocker... Runs the ball fairly well, but blocking is his biggest asset... One of the team's strongest players... Tough and aggressive... Has good work habits... Very intelligent... Doesn't make many mistakes... Diagnoses defenses well... Very coachable... A good receiver... Was Carolina's most consistent back during spring practice... Came to Carolina without a scholarship, but has earned one with his work and dedication... A quality person... First gained attention with a fine showing in the spring of 1981... Came from nowhere to win the backup fullback job... Had played on the jayvees as a freshman... Halfback and linebacker at Northern Nash High School... All-conference as a senior... Nominated for a Morehead Scholarship... Majoring in accounting... Born January 25, 1962.

Bill Lawson
Offensive Tackle
6-7, 255, Sophomore
Clifton, Va.

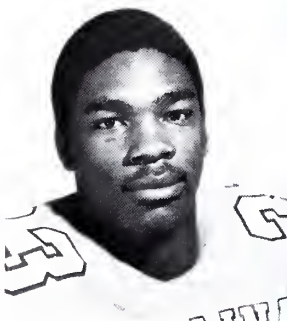

The starting right tackle going into the fall... A defensive tackle in 1980, Bill was shifted to offense last season... Was red-shirted to gain experience at this new position... Has size, speed, quickness, agility and determination... A competitor who improved steadily during the spring... The work he did on the practice field last fall has helped him tremendously... Only thing he seems to be lacking at this point is game experience... All-state performer at Robinson Secondary School... Played on teams which won one regional and two district championships... Earned letters four straight years in football, track and wrestling... State wrestling champion in the unlimited weight class as a senior with a 27-0 record... Shot and discus champ in track... Majoring in RTVMP... Born May 18, 1962.

Has a chance to be the punter this fall... Punted in the jayvee games last season... Averaged 40.4 yards on seven kicks... Had a 36-yard punt in the spring game... Was hampered in the spring by an injured ankle... Tight end, linebacker and punter at Myrtle Beach High and Fork Union Military Academy... All-conference as a high school senior... Majoring in business... Born May 18, 1961.

33

Ray Littlejohn
Tailback
6-0, 190, Sophomore
Lincolnton, N.C.

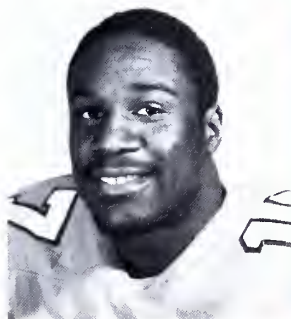

Has the potential to be a good player... Got off to a fine start in the spring, but suffered a knee injury in the first scrimmage... Missed the rest of the off-season drills and that lost practice time could hurt him this fall... Has good size and speed... Great receiver and a good runner... Also a dependable blocker... Very coachable... Lacks experience right now... Saw junior varsity action last fall... A three-year starter at Lincolnton High as a linebacker and running back... Rushed for over 1,200 yards as a senior, averaging 8.2 yards per carry... Had one game in which he rushed for 250 yards on nine carries... Western Piedmont and Catawba Valley Player of the Year... Played on conference championship teams as a junior and senior... Player of the Year on a conference basketball championship team as a senior... Won three letters in basketball and two in track... Enrolled in the general college at Carolina... Born March 7, 1963.

In the running for the punting job this fall... Had a good spring kicking the football... Averaged 44.3 yards on three punts in the spring game... Kicked for the junior varsity last season, averaging 40.9 yards on 11 punts... Conscientious and a hard worker... Has good insight into the kicking game... Has a good leg... Just needs more poise and experience... Came to Carolina as a walk-on last fall... Had been out of high school six years before enrolling at Carolina... Had been working since then... An offensive guard and defensive tackle at Wren High School... The only married Tar Heel player... Majoring in business... Born June 17, 1957.

Darryl Lucas
Defensive Back
5-10, 185, Junior
Selma, N.C.

One of Carolina's key defensive players... Although he's listed as a backup at cornerback going into the fall, he's capable of winning a starting job... In fact, he has the ability to be one of the best defensive backs in the Atlantic Coast Conference... The only question about Lucas is his health... Opened the 1981 season as the starting right cornerback and did a good job... Injured a knee at Georgia Tech and missed the next two games... Appeared in the rest of the games, but did not seem as confident as he had been prior to the injury... Did have an interception in the Gator Bowl which set up what proved to be Carolina's winning touchdown... Came back in the spring and did a fine job until banging up his knee again... If he completely rehabilitates his knee, it will be a tremendous boost to the Tar Heel team... An exceptional talent... Has excellent quickness and speed... Good natural instincts... Voted Carolina's best freshman in 1980... Saw most of his action on the special teams that year... Did play some at safety and had an interception against Duke... Fullback and defensive back at Smithfield-Selma High... All-conference and all-metro as a junior and senior... Played in the Shrine Bowl and the North-South All-Star Game... Had 17 interceptions in his high school career, including nine as a senior... Rushed for over 3,000 yards... Lettered three times in football and four times in track... An RTVMP major... Steve McGrew
Center
6-2, 245, Senior
West Chester, Ohio

Perhaps the most under-rated player on the Carolina team... Gives the Tar Heels excellent play at center... Should be a leading candidate for All-Atlantic Coast Conference honors this fall... Started the first eight games last season and did a solid job... Was generally over-shadowed, however, by All-ACC guards David Drechsler and Ron Spruill... Teams with those two to give Carolina superb play in the middle of the line... Sprained an ankle at Maryland and missed the last three games of the season... Came back to have an outstanding spring... Made tremendous overall improvement during the off-season work... Run blocking and pass protection were both better... Has great awareness of the center position and the overall Carolina offense... Good, quality person with a great desire to succeed... Tremendous hustler and competitor... Good second-effort player... Has excellent work habits... Comes early to practice and stays late to improve... Has good feet and initial quickness... Intelligent and mentally tough... Dependable in the clutch... Always ready on game day... A leader on and off the field... Also capable of playing guard... Came to Carolina at 210 pounds and now weighs 245... Played with the number two offensive unit as a sophomore and on the jayvees as a freshman... All-league performer at Moeller High in Cincinnati... Moeller was state champion three of the four years he was there and also won two national titles... Never missed a day of classes in his high school career... Excellent student majoring in mathematics... Would like to go into some form of nuclear industry as a vocation... Born September 23, 1961.

Bob McKinley
Fullback
6-1, 214, Senior
Bay Village, Ohio

Hard worker who is a possibility for special teams... Strong kid with good toughness... Did a good job in spring practice... Never quits and doesn't make a lot of mistakes... One of the reserves at fullback... Most of his playing time has come in junior varsity games... Did play in some of the early varsity games last fall... Plagued by injuries in his freshman year... An all-conference player at Lakewood St. Edward High School... Majoring in business... Born March 18, 1961.

Micah Moon
Linebacker
6-3, 220, Sophomore
Lynch Station, Va.

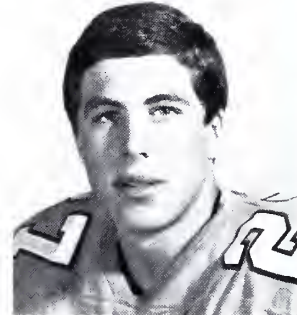

Has the talent to be an outstanding linebacker... Listed as the backup to Chris Ward at one linebacking spot... Will definitely get a lot of playing time this fall... Also should see special team action... Was a reserve fullback last fall... Saw spot action with the varsity and also played in two jayvee games... Shifted to linebacker after Lee Shaffer was injured late in the season... Considering the amount of time he's been at linebacker, he did an exceptional job in the spring... Still learning to play the position... Made some plays in the spring strictly on natural ability... Has excellent speed and good size... Has very good acceleration to the football... Does a fine job on underneath pass coverage... His good instincts and acceleration help that... Has tremendous hitting ability... Could be a big-play man on defense... Played linebacker and running back at Altavista High... Made 85 solo tackles and had 80 assists as a senior there... All-district, all-region and all-state as a linebacker... All-district as a running back... Played in the East-West All-Star Game... Won three letters in football and four each in basketball and track... District and regional champion in the triple jump and the 110-yard high hurdles... Enrolled in the general college at Carolina... Born November 15, 1962.

66

Anthony Moses
Linebacker
6-0, 207, Sophomore
Fayetteville, N.C.

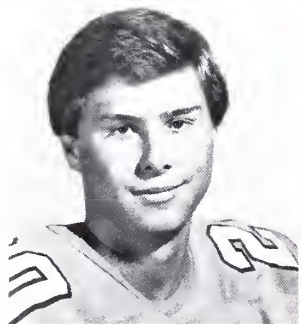

Saw some junior varsity action as a walk-on last fall... Underwent knee surgery during the season... Saw no contact work in the spring... Is way behind the other players because of that.

27

Steve Moss
Defensive Back
6-1, 170, Junior
Zebulon, N.C.

Started in the junior varsity secondary last fall... Ended spring practice as the number three free safety... A potential special team player... A hard worker who has gotten stronger and quicker in his time here... Instincts need to improve as does his concept of pass defense... Could eventually help the varsity... Was a quarterback on the 1980 jayvee team... Came out as a walk-on after playing quarterback and defensive back at Zebulon High... Majoring in computer science... Born October 6, 1962.

Grover Moore
Wide Receiver
6-0, 165, Sophomore
Burlington, N.C.

Underwent foot surgery last fall which kept him out of spring practice... Difficult to evaluate because of that... Did play in a couple of junior varsity games last season... Listed as a reserve at split end... Expected to be ready to play when practice opens... Had a fine career at Walter Williams High School... Led his team to a 14-0 record and the state 3-A championship as a senior... Caught 37 passes for 800 yards and 14 touchdowns... Team captain... Conference scoring leader and co-Offensive Player of the Year... Made six catches in the Shrine Bowl and also played in the East-West All-Star Game... In Carolina's general college... Born November 10, 1962.

T.J. Murray
Outside Linebacker
6-3, 212, Junior
Springfield, Va.

A reserve at outside linebacker... Tough to evaluate because he has missed so much practice time... Sat out most of the spring of 1981 with a separated shoulder... Underwent surgery on that shoulder last fall and that kept him out of contact work last spring... Good speed and quickness... Understands the position... Needs better upper body strength and experience... Bad shoulder has prevented him from gaining either... Played on the 1980 junior varsity... Handled much of the punting that year and also intercepted two passes... All-America linebacker at West Springfield High... All-metro on teams chosen by the Washington Post and the Washington Star... A business major... Born September 17, 1962.

77

Greg Naron
Offensive Guard
6-4, 250, Sophomore
Pleasant Garden, N.C.

A newcomer to the offensive line who could develop into a top player... Played defensive tackle as a freshman last season... Shifted to offense in the spring... Goes into the new season lined up as the number two left guard behind All-America David Drechsler... A tough kid who is a good competitor... An extremely hard worker... Has a lot of talent... Has good strength and explosion... Reminds coaches somewhat of former Carolina All-America guard Ron Wooten... Capable of developing into that type of player... Offensive and defensive tackle at Randleman High... Won three letters on teams which compiled an overall record of 25-5-1 and made two trips to the state playoffs... Also won two letters in basketball, one in baseball and four in track... Holds his school record in the discus and shot... Played in the Shrine Bowl and East-West All-Star Game... Honor roll student who skipped the first grade... Enrolled in Carolina's general college... Born October 21, 1963.

Jim Naughton
Wide Receiver
6-0, 175, Junior
Doylestown, Pa.

Walk-on who has played on the junior varsity in his first two years here... Hard worker... Good practice player... Lack of speed is a problem... Missed most of spring practice with an injury... That has put him behind the others at this position... Heads into the fall as the number four flanker... Fine high school receiver at Central Bucks East... Current Carolina teammate Scott Stankavage was his quarterback there... His dad, Jim, was a tackle on the 1963 Tar Heel team which won the Gator Bowl... Majoring in business... Born October 31, 1962.

16

Mark Oglesby
Defensive Back
5-10, 180, Senior
Greensboro, N.C.

A reserve at right cornerback... Transferred to Carolina from Ferrum Junior College in the spring of 1981... Now has two spring practices and one season under his belt... Seems more comfortable than he did a year ago... Has improved in his time here... A very aggressive player... Defensive back and running back at Smith High School... Was a sprinter on his track team... His brother, Ike, was a Tar Heel tailback in the early 1970's... Majoring in RTVMP... Born January 16, 1961.

57

Dwight Parrish
Linebacker
6-1, 218, Junior
Danville, Va.

Lettered as a reserve linebacker last year... Saw a great deal of action on special teams and did a good job... Being counted on to play there again this season... Could also see action at linebacker... Made good improvement last spring... Has excellent strength... Has improved his flexibility in the last year... A good hitter... Starter on the junior varsity in 1980... Played linebacker at George Washington High... That's the same school which also produced former Carolina standout Buddy Curry and current Tar Heel safety Steve Hendrickson... All-state selection... Also named to the Centenary All-America team... Attended Boy's State in 1979 and was an executive officer in the NJROTC program at George Washington... Fine student who is in the ROTC program at Carolina... Majoring in RTVMP... Born October 26, 1961.

Five Retired Jerseys

Five Carolina football jerseys—numbers 22, 46, 50, 59 and 99—have been retired over the years in honor of the men who wore them.

The number 22 was almost as well known as the athlete who wore it—Charlie “Choo Choo” Justice. One of college football's all-time superstars, Justice was an All-America halfback at Carolina from 1946-1949. In fact, those years generally are known as simply “The Justice Era” in Chapel Hill.

Carl Snavely, Justice's coach, was instrumental in getting number 46 retired. That belonged to Cotton Sutherland, an outstanding back who was killed in an automobile crash while a Carolina student.

Number 50 was Art Weiner, an All-America end in the late Forties. In 1949 Art caught a school-record 52 passes. He was also a great defensive player.

Another end, Andy Bershak, wore 59. A defensive standout, he was an All-America selection in 1939.

Carolina's first All-America, George Barclay, had the number 99. He was a star guard and earned All-America honors in 1934.

64

Jack Parry
Defensive Tackle
6-1, 256, Senior
Mechanicsburg, Pa.

Leader of the Tar Heel defensive front... Gave Carolina solid play at tackle last season... Not a spectacular player, but very steady... His statistics will never be great because of what he's asked to do in the defensive scheme... However, he does his job extremely well... Had 18 tackles and 17 assists last year... Recorded four quarterback sacks and made two other tackles for losses... Sprained an ankle in the South Carolina game and his playing time was restricted after that... Missed the entire Maryland game... Best performance may have been at Georgia Tech... His style of play complements that of William Fuller, the other starting Carolina tackle, very well... Strong and very competitive... Has good quickness and body balance... Knows how to use his hands... Very smart... Makes all the defensive line calls... Excellent student of the game... Very tough against the run... Also contains the passer well... Loves to play and always gives 100 percent... Had been the backup nose guard in 1980... Saw considerable action that season behind Paul Davis... Starting tackle on the 1979 junior varsity... Was a heavyweight on Carolina's wrestling team each of his first two years here... Finished third at heavyweight in the Atlantic Coast Conference Tournament as a freshman... All-metro in football and All-America in wrestling at Mechanicsburg High... State wrestling runner-up as a junior and state champion as a senior... Majoring in industrial relations... Born December 7, 1960.

66

Stuart Phillips
Deep Snapper
6-0, 220, Sophomore
Rocky Mount, N.C.

Should be the long snapper this fall... Will replace Jimbo Harrell who handled those duties for the last four years... Has good velocity on his snap... Needs to work on his accuracy... Reliable and a hard worker... Needs experience... A jayvee lineman last year... Twice an all-conference and all-area selection as a center at Rocky Mount High... Handled long snaps there... Team captain as a senior... His team was the Division I 4-A champion in 1979... Played in the Shrine Bowl... Member of the National Honor Society... Enrolled in the general college at Carolina... Born December 18, 1962.

Jeff Pierce
Outside Linebacker
6-0, 208, Senior
Hickory, N.C.

A valuable backup who missed almost all of the 1981 season with a knee injury... Was injured in the season's second game, but got a hardship ruling and another year of eligibility... Thumb injury kept him out of spring practice and makes him a question mark for the fall... If his thumb completely heals, he'll be ready to go... Otherwise, he may pass up his last year of football... Wants to be a surgeon and cannot afford a serious thumb injury... Has been an excellent special team player in his time at Carolina... Could make an important contribution in that area this fall... Capable of playing either outside linebacker post... Intelligent player who is an excellent technician... Works hard all the time... Doesn't make mental mistakes... Hard-nosed competitor... Playing time was curtailed in his junior year by nagging injuries... Saw extensive duty as a sophomore, starting a couple of games... Had a key fumble recovery that year at N.C. State to set up a touchdown... A defensive back on the jayvees as a freshman... Fullback and linebacker at Hickory High and Episcopal High... Majoring in zoology... Born October 13, 1959.

Greg Poole
Defensive Back
6-1, 200, Senior
China Grove, N.C.

All-Atlantic Coast Conference selection last year who rates as an All-America candidate in his senior season... Third-team All-America last fall on squad chosen by The Football News... Had a great season at left cornerback... Made big plays week after week in the secondary and as a punt returner... Had 28 solo tackles, 18 assists and three interceptions... Also broke up six other passes and batted down one at the line of scrimmage on a blitz... Returned one interception 28 yards for a touchdown against Miami and another 66 yards for a score against Wake Forest... His other interception also came against the Deacons... Named ACC Player of the Week for his performance in that game... His two TDs on interception returns tied the school single-season and career record... Only other Tar Heel to score twice on interceptions in one season was Bill Maceyko in 1948... Maceyko, George Barclay and Al Goldstein returned two interceptions for touchdowns during their careers... Had started at right cornerback as a sophomore... Made 15 tackles and had 14 assists that year... Had an interception and a fumble recovery at Oklahoma... Made a big sack in the fourth quarter at Clemson... Had been a special team player as a freshman and also saw some action in junior varsity play... Has developed into a premier defensive back in his time at Carolina... Has excellent size and speed for a cornerback... Smart with a lot of savvy... Tough against the run and reacts well to the pass... Quite coachable... The most experienced player on the Tar Heel defense... Being counted on to be one of the defensive leaders... Not a rah-rah type, but instead leads by example... Has good work habits... Also has done an excellent job of returning punts in the last two years... Led the ACC and was eighth in the nation in punt returns last fall... Returned 29 punts for 349 yards, a 12.0 average... Longest return was a 56-yarder against Wake Forest... That's also the longest of his varsity career... Finished that day with three returns for 102 yards... Also had a big day against Wake Forest as a sophomore with six returns for 70 yards... Averaged 8.6 yards per return in 1980... Had 41 returns that season for 351 yards... Only Carolina players to have more yardage than that in a single season were Crowell Little (355) in 1936 and Don Jackson (363) in 1935... Has now returned 70 punts in his career for 700 yards... School record for most returns is 89 by Jackson... Charlie Justice holds the school mark for yardage with 966... Excellent concentration makes Poole a good return specialist... Also has fine hands and good instincts... A great deal is expected of this young man this fall... All-state and conference MVP as a senior at South Rowan High School... Also competed in baseball and basketball there... Plays the trombone, drums and piano... An excellent student majoring in industrial relations... Born February 6, 1961.

Bobby Pope
Offensive Guard
6-3, 245, Sophomore
Hickory, N.C.

Goes into the fall as Ron Spruill's top backup at right guard... Attended Clemson briefly in 1980 before transferring to Carolina... Was ineligible last season because of that... Saw action on the scout team last year... Was a hard worker in the running and weight-lifting program during the off-season... Very aggressive and tough... Has good strength and explosion... Fine quickness... Really has the tools to play... Just needs confidence and game experience... Two-way tackle and punter at St. Stephens High... Team captain as a senior... Named to Adidas All-America team... Played in the Shrine Bowl and the East-West All-Star Game... Won three letters in football, two in baseball and one in track... His father played football at N.C. State (1955-56)... Enrolled in the general college at Carolina... Born August 19, 1962.

Defensive Back
6-1, 195, Junior
Windsor, N.C.

Fine athlete who seems ready to make a major contribution to the Tar Heel team... Had an excellent spring... Made great improvement in all phases of play... Instincts for defense have gotten much better... Also began to understand secondary coverage concepts better... That seemed to make him more comfortable on the field... A good worker who wants to improve... Has always been an exceptional man-to-man defender because of his good athletic ability... Now playing other coverages well, too... Got playing time last year as Greg Poole's backup... Goes into the new season in that same role... Probably saw his most action last season at N.C. State... Did a good job in that game... Finished the year with 11 tackles and four assists... Played in the junior varsity secondary as a freshman... Also did a good job on the scout team that year as a quarterback... Quarterback and defensive back at Bertie High... Guided his team to an 8-2-1 record as a junior and a 7-3 mark as a senior... In two seasons of varsity play, he scored 19 touchdowns, gained over 1,600 yards rushing and threw for over 1,400 yards... An RTVMP major... Born November 6, 1961.

Bobby Ratliff
Fullback
6-2, 204, Junior
Laurinburg, N.C.

Should be a factor in the backfield this season... Goes into the fall as the number four fullback, but has the ability to move up on the depth chart... Also could be used at tailback, a position he played last season... Ran for 335 yards on 66 carries last fall, averaging 5.1 yards per rush... Had a 51-yard run against Wake Forest... Finished that game with 158 yards on 22 carries... Scored TDs on short runs against East Carolina and Boston College... Shifted to fullback late in the year after Alan Burrus suffered a knee injury... Remained there in the spring... Got off to a great start in the off-season work... However, was hampered much of the time by a shoulder injury... Came back to end the spring on a good note and played well in the Blue-White Game... A very intelligent young man who loves to play... Has a good positive attitude... Coachable and a hard worker... Has good strength and size... A hard runner, but needs to improve his blocking... Has good hands and is a fine receiver... Needs to be more consistent... Saw spot varsity action as a freshman... Also played on the junior varsity... Had one jayvee game against Massanutten Academy in which he gained 151 yards on just eight carries... Played blocking back at Scotland County High for two years... Shifted to tailback as a senior and responded with 1,490 yards in nine games and 26 touchdowns... Had a single-game high of 232 yards... Played in the Shrine Bowl... Majoring in recreation... Born October 29, 1961.

Jeff Ray
Tight End
6-3, 240, Sophomore
Durham, N.C.

Number two tight end... Saw some varsity action last year as the number three tight end and on special teams... Had one reception, a 17-yard catch against East Carolina in the season opener... Has good ability... Needs more consistency... When he develops that, he'll be a top-flight player... Gives Carolina good speed at tight end... Has fine size and excellent hands... Concentration needs to improve... Earned three football letters at Northern Durham on teams which went 25-5... Caught 30 passes in his final two years there for 347 yards and four touchdowns... Also averaged 41.6 yards as a punter in his senior year... All-state selection... Played in the Shrine Bowl and the East-West All-Star Game... His father, Sid, played football at Carolina during the Charlie Justice Era... Enrolled in the general college... Born December 30, 1962.

Bill Sheppard
Linebacker
6-1, 218, Junior
Camp Lejeune, N.C.

Starter at the end of spring practice... Being counted on to fill the void left by the graduation of All-Atlantic Coast Conference linebacker Lee Shaffer... Worked hard in the spring and did a good job... Has good instincts for the football... That's especially helpful at this position... Tough and an excellent hitter... Runs well... Still needs improvement in some areas... Played behind Shaffer last year and also saw special team duty... Made 11 solo tackles and assisted on eight others... Recovered fumbles in games against Maryland and Duke... Lettered as a freshman, seeing most of his action on special teams... Played outside linebacker that year... Shifted inside in the spring of 1981... Grew up on marine bases... Played fullback, tailback and linebacker at Lejeune High... His teams won three conference championships... All-East and all-conference as a junior and senior... Rushed for over 3,000 yards in those final two years... An industrial relations major... Born January 21, 1962.

Rob Rogers
Punter
5-11, 180, Sophomore
Raleigh, N.C.

Candidate for the punting job vacated by Jeff Hayes... Was a walk-on defensive back on the junior varsity last fall... Did no punting there... Became a contender for the punting job during spring practice... Made good progress and was very impressive at the end of the spring... Punted five times for a 39.0 average in the Blue-White Game... Gets great height on the ball... Needs more distance... A good all-around athlete... A quarterback at Broughton High... Also played golf there... Enrolled in the general college.

Doug Sickels
Tight End
6-3, 235, Senior
Springfield, Ohio

Backup tight end last year... Graduation of Shelton Robinson gives him a chance to finally prove himself... Took advantage of that opportunity in the spring... Did a good job blocking and catching the football... Heads into the new season as the starter at this spot... Tough, hard-nosed competitor... Lacks great speed, but makes up for that with hard work and determination... Got a lot of playing time early last season... That game experience should be valuable this fall... His only catch was a 28-yard reception against East Carolina in the season opener... Had been the number three tight end in 1980... Started on the junior varsity as a freshman... All-league selection at South Springfield High... Also played baseball there... National Honor Society member... Majoring in industrial relations... Born August 25, 1961.

Mark Sigmon
Tight End
6-2, 223, Sophomore
Denver, N.C.

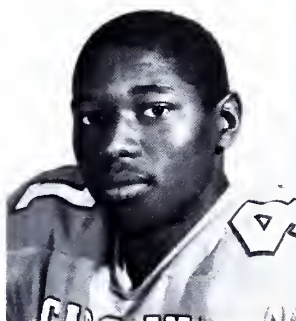

High school quarterback who was switched to tight end last fall... Played that position on the junior varsity... Ended the spring as the number four man at this spot... Will contribute as he continues to develop... Could see special team action this season... Needs more work, especially on his blocking skills... Won four football letters as a quarterback and linebacker at Bandys High... Also lettered four times in basketball, twice in baseball and once in tennis... Played on basketball teams which were twice state runners-up... His brother, Gene, was co-captain of Carolina's 1963 Gator Bowl championship team... Enrolled in the general college... Born December 10, 1962.

Darryl Smith
Offensive Tackle
6-4, 255, Sophomore
Silver Spring, Md.

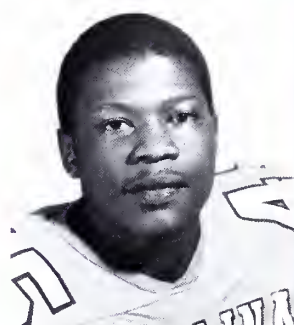

Backup to Brian Blados at left tackle... Won a letter in that same role last fall... Also saw special team action... Good athlete... Has all the physical tools to play—size, speed, strength, quickness and good body balance... Also has good intelligence... Lacks experience... Defensive tackle and tight end at St. John's High... All-conference and Centenary All-America... Spent one year as a two-way tackle at Fork Union Military Academy before coming to Carolina... Enrolled in the general college... Born May 19, 1962.

41

Troy Simmons
Linebacker
6-0, 206, Sophomore
Spring Lake, N.C.

Outstanding young prospect... Had a good spring, finishing the off-season drills as Bill Sheppard's chief backup... Has the ability to eventually be a starter... Will see a great deal of action this fall at linebacker and on special teams... Has excellent instincts... Knows where the football is... That may be his best asset... Has good speed, but plays faster than that... Very good hitter... One of the best technicians of all the linebackers... Executes very well... An intense player and a great student of the game... Just needs experience... Played linebacker on the jayvees early last fall and then saw late-season varsity action on special teams... A linebacker at Pine Forest High... Led his team to an 11-1 record as a senior there... All-East, all-conference and all-state... Won three football letters... One of his teammates there was N.C. State tailback Vince Evans... Played in the Shrine Bowl... Enrolled in the general college... Born October 22, 1962.

Mark Smith
Wide Receiver
6-0, 175, Junior
Fayetteville, N.C.

Carolina's second-leading receiver last fall... Had 19 catches for 368 yards, averaging 19.4 yards per catch... Had one touchdown catch—a 63-yard reception against Boston College... Injured in pre-season last fall, but eventually worked himself into the starting lineup... Had at least one catch in the first nine games last year... Came to Carolina as a tailback and played that position early in 1980... Moved to wide receiver at mid-season that year... Has all the tools to be an outstanding player at this position... Great speed makes him a deep threat in the passing game... Needs to develop discipline and consistency... Improved on those things last spring... Did an excellent job in the spring game... Had seven catches for 116 yards... Could be used on kickoff returns this fall... Averaged 21.7 yards in that role as a freshman and 20.9 yards last season... Longest return was a 42-yarder at Oklahoma in 1980... Made a big play in the Bluebonnet Bowl that year, running 31 yards on a reverse to set up Carolina's winning touchdown against Texas... Fine running back at E.E. Smith High... Played in the Shrine Bowl and the East-West All-Star Game... Majoring in RTVMP... Born April 4, 1962.

Ronnie Snipes
Nose Guard
6-1, 233, Sophomore
Durham, N.C.

Did a good job as the number two nose guard last season... Made several big plays in the Gator Bowl victory over Arkansas... Did an excellent job in goal line situations that night... It was his 17-yard sack on the Razorbacks' last possession that killed the final Arkansas scoring threat... Really had played well on goal line defenses all year... Had a very good spring... Played with more maturity... Has good strength and great quickness... Has tremendous power in his legs... Does an excellent job of pass rushing... Needs a little more stamina... Heads into the fall as Steve Fortson's backup at this position once again... Could also be used at tackle if needed... Sure to see plenty of action... Came to Carolina in the fall of 1980... Injured a knee in practice the week of the second game and missed the rest of the year... Was granted a hardship ruling and an extra year of eligibility... Was a defensive tackle, nose guard and place-kicker at Southern Durham High School and Fork Union Military Academy... All-conference selection three times... Triangle Lineman of the Year as a senior at Southern... Played in the Shrine Bowl and the East-West All-Star Game... A three-time all-conference baseball player at Southern... Majoring in criminal justice... Born October 30, 1960.

Ron Spruill
Offensive Guard
6-2, 250, Senior
Hampton, Va.

Here is one of the best offensive linemen in college football... Set to begin his third year as Carolina's starting right guard... Another in a long line of great Tar Heel offensive guards... Has started 24 straight games... All-Atlantic Coast Conference selection last year... Could challenge for national all-star honors this fall... Teams with David Drechsler to give Carolina perhaps the best guard combination in the college game... When Spruill and Drechsler were both named to the All-ACC team last year, it marked the first time in conference history that both of the offensive guards came off the same team... Consistent performer who graded out in every game last fall... His blocking was a major factor in Carolina leading the ACC in total offense, rushing and scoring last year... Earned ACC Player of the Week honors for his performance against Miami... With Spruill in the lineup, Tar Heel tailbacks have had 25 100-yard rushing days in the last two years and three 1,000-yard seasons... Last year four Carolina tailbacks combined for 2,179 yards and 29 touchdowns... The blocking of Spruill played a key role in that success... Tar Heels try to get him to the point of attack as often as possible... Has a lot of talent and plays to his potential... Hard-nosed and dedicated... Tough and aggressive... Practices hard and plays hard... An intense individual with good work habits... Fundamentally sound... Very coachable... A hitter... Explosive on contact and has a knack for staying on a block... Has good speed and excellent strength... Strength and quickness make him an excellent one-on-one blocker... Very effective on traps and sweeps... Good football intelligence... Adjusts well to game situations... Has the perfect mental attitude for an offensive lineman... Unselfish and team-oriented... Has gotten better and better in his time here and is still improving... Did a good job in spring practice... Worked to improve his pass protection and did just that... A leader on and off the field... Prior to breaking into the starting lineup, had seen special team action in his freshman season... All-state performer at Bethel High... Won district and regional wrestling titles as a senior there and finished third in the state tournament... As a sophomore in high school he was on teams which won state championships in football, wrestling and track... An economics major... Born October 28, 1960.

Scott Stankavage
Quarterback
6-1, 195, Junior
Doylestown, Pa.

Carolina's number two quarterback... Had an up-and-down season in 1981... Completed 45 of 85 passes for 495 yards and three touchdowns... Forced into action against South Carolina after Rod Elkins injured an ankle in the game's first quarter... Completed 16 of 35 passes that day for 181 yards and a touchdown... Started the next two games against Maryland and Clemson... Played a tremendous game at Maryland... Went all the way against the Terps, completing 17 of 24 passes for 177 yards... It was his 20-yard touchdown pass to Tyrone Anthony with 1:20 to play that was the difference in Carolina's 17-10 victory... Like most opposing quarterbacks, he had problems with Clemson's rugged defense in his second start... Completed eight of 21 passes that day for 93 yards in Carolina's 10-8 loss... Came back from that disappointment to do a great job in the off-season drills... Had an excellent spring... Was very consistent... Gained the confidence of his teammates with his strong showing... Only practiced for three weeks, however... Missed the last two weeks of the spring with a sprained knee... Will be ready to go this fall... The playing time he got last fall should be a great asset to him this year... Had seen only spot action in his freshman season as Elkins' backup... Now has seen a lot of defensive looks and can recognize them... His awareness of defenses may be his biggest asset... Doesn't have a great arm, but a good one... Intelligent and a good decision maker... An excellent student of the game... Has a sound football mind... A creative thinker on the field... A fine all-around athlete... Very conscientious... Needs to improve some of his mechanics... Also needs better flexibility... Quarterback and safety at Central Bucks East High School... His team was 19-3-1 in games he started at quarterback, including 10-1 his senior year... All-league quarterback as a senior... All-state and Centenary All-America as a defensive back... Ran for 300 yards as a senior and passed for 1,065 more... Played in the Big 33 All-Star Classic... Fine high school basketball player... Excellent student majoring in business... Member of the All-ACC Academic team last fall... Born July 5, 1962.

Mark Transou
Wide Receiver
6-4, 200, Sophomore
Elkin, N.C.

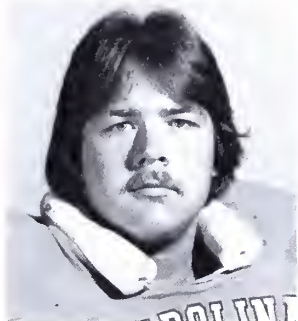

Versatile athlete who should make a contribution this fall... Came to Carolina as a tight end and played that position as a freshman on the junior varsity... His size, however, dictated a move to wide receiver... Switched last fall and red-shirted to learn the position... Goes into the fall as the number three flanker... Has the flexibility to go back to tight end if needed... A tough, hard-nosed competitor... Always gives 100 percent... Teammates call him "Stork"... Quarterback, tight end, free safety and defensive end at Elkin High... Also used as a punter there... Caught 27 passes as a senior, four for touchdowns... Also had seven interceptions... Twice an all-conference selection in both football and basketball... Played in the Shrine Bowl and the North-South All-Star Game... Valedictorian of his class... Majoring in business... Born November 3, 1961.

Chris Ward
Linebacker
6-0, 210, Senior
Cincinnati, Ohio

Set to move into the starting lineup after three years as a backup... Has done a good job in his reserve role and should be a solid player at this position... Will play the linebacker slot vacated by four-year starter Darrell Nicholson... Did a good job of filling in for both Nicholson and Lee Shaffer last year... Started for the injured Shaffer at Duke and in the Gator Bowl against Arkansas although that wasn't his natural position... Had eight solo tackles, two assists and an interception against the Blue Devils... Was sensational in the Gator Bowl... Turned in one of the best performances by a linebacker in Dick Crum's time at Carolina... Was in on 17 hits that night, despite playing a position to which he wasn't accustomed... Also called the defensive signals in that game... Finished the regular season with 37 tackles and nine assists, an unusually high number considering the amount of time he played... Intercepted passes against Virginia and Duke... Had an excellent spring... Moved into the starting role during the first practice and never lost the job... Has lost 15 pounds since last season and that has helped his quickness... Has good instincts... A very intense player with a good knowledge of the game... Understands the defense and seldom makes a mistake... A smart player and a leader on the field... A tough, hard hitter... All-state and all-city at Cincinnati's Elder High... As a senior he played on a state championship baseball team... Enjoys music and boxing... A good student majoring in sociology... Born April 8, 1961.

Earl Winfield
Wide Receiver
6-0, 186, Freshman
Petersburg, Va.

Could be a key player in the Tar Heel offense... Has all the tools to be an exceptional wide receiver... A highly-skilled athlete... Missed all of last fall with a shoulder injury suffered the second day of practice... Got a hardship ruling and will be a freshman eligibility-wise again this year... Bounced back from that to have an excellent spring... One of the best performers on the entire football team in the off-season drills... Has excellent work habits... A great runner once he catches the football... That ability, coupled with his fine speed, could make him a big-play man... Since he missed last season, he still lacks overall knowledge of this position... But, always gives a great effort... Was outstanding in the spring game... Had two touchdown catches covering 16 and 78 yards... Listed behind Mark Smith at flanker on the depth chart... Will see plenty of action... Could be one of the biggest surprises in the Atlantic Coast Conference... A defensive back and running back at Dinwiddie High and Fork Union Military Academy... First-team all-state as a defensive back and second-team as a runner after his senior year at Dinwiddie... Named to Coach and Athlete All-America Team... Ran for 1,034 yards as a senior and scored 15 touchdowns... Averaged 22.4 points in basketball and also competed in field events and sprints in track... Enrolled in Carolina's general college... A Ram For a Mascot?

For almost 60 years the mascot of North Carolina's football team has been a ram. The current sideline star for the Tar Heels is Rameses IX.

Since Carolina's nickname is Tar Heels, it might seem strange to have a ram as a mascot. It is. But, there is a good explanation. It's offered by Vic Huggins, Carolina's head cheerleader back in 1924.

"In 1924 school spirit was at a peak," Huggins once explained. "But something seemed to be missing. One day it hit me. Georgia had a bulldog for a mascot and State a wolf. What Carolina needed was a symbol."

Two years earlier the Tar Heels had posted a brilliant 9-1 record. The star of that 1922 team was a bruising fullback named Jack Merritt. Merritt was nicknamed "the battering ram" for the way he plunged into lines. It seemed natural to Huggins to link a mascot with Merritt's unusual sobriquet.

"Charlie Woollen, the athletic business manager at that time, agreed with the idea and gave us $25 to purchase a fitting mascot," said Huggins.

Rameses the First was shipped in from Texas, arriving just in time to be introduced at a pep rally before the VMI game. Complete with a monogram blanket on his back, Rameses helped make that pep rally one of the school's greatest.

Then the ram was taken to Emerson Field where Carolina was an underdog to a strong VMI team. But, for three quarters the Tar Heels battled the visitors to a scoreless tie.

Late in the fourth period Carolina's Bunn Hackney was called upon to attempt a field goal. Before taking the field he stopped to rub Rameses' head for good luck.

Seconds later Hackney's 30-yard dropkick sailed between the goalposts, giving the Tar Heels a 3-0 victory and a legendary mascot.

From that November afternoon in 1924, the deeds and experiences of Rameses I and his successors have been the basis for countless anecdotes.

For instance, there was Rameses I making his first indoor appearance. Huggins was again the originator of the idea, the Tin Can was the scene and a basketball game was the event.

A theatrical debut with bright lights and a chorus was planned for the ram's introduction before a capacity audience. But when Rameses was led to midcourt at halftime, it became evident that he was not housebroken. In addition to being his first, that was also Rameses' last basketball game.

Tar Heel rams have traveled everywhere from New York City (for the Carolina-Notre Dame game in 1949) to Jacksonville for Carolina's Gator Bowl appearances.

Generally, the highlight of each season for Rameses is trying to outwit Duke students who always try to ram-nap him before the traditional big game with the Blue Devils.

Chancellor Christopher Fordham

The chancellor at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill is Dr. Christopher C. Fordham III.

Fordham was appointed to the position in February, 1980 by the University's Board of Governors. The Board was acting on the recommendation of William Friday, president of the consolidated university system.

Fordham was Vice-Chancellor of Health Affairs at the University from 1977 to his appointment as chancellor. He served as Dean of Carolina's School of Medicine from 1971 to 1979 and holds a professorship in the School of Medicine.

Fordham succeeded Ferebee Taylor as chancellor. Taylor served in that role from 1972 to January, 1980.

"I have known Dr. Fordham for many years," said President Friday, in making the announcement. "He is a courageous, fair and aggressive leader who has abundantly demonstrated his love for the University. His perception of the nature and purpose of this noble institution is clear, and he will lead it to a greater fulfillment of its mission of good teaching, solid research and public service appropriate to and expected of the University at Chapel Hill."

Prominent nationally as an educator, Fordham in 1977 turned down the top health office in the nation, assistant secretary for health in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, to stay in Chapel Hill.

Since he joined the Carolina faculty 24 years ago Fordham has held a wide variety of prestigious positions at the University and on the national level.

He is a former member of the executive council of the Association of American Medical Colleges and a past chairman of both the AAMC National Council of Deans and Southern Regional Deans.

A member of the Institute of Medicine of the National Academy of Sciences, Fordham is also a diplomate of the American Board of Internal Medicine, a Distinguished Service Member of the AAMC, a fellow of the American College of Physicians and a member of the medical honorary, Alpha Omega Alpha.

In administration for the past 17 years, Fordham served as a member of the chancellor's administrative council prior to taking the University's top job. Thus, he had been exposed to university-wide issues and problems such as admissions, budget and enrollment projections before becoming chancellor.

A native of Greensboro and a 1951 graduate of the Harvard Medical School, Fordham joined the University's School of Medicine and Faculty in 1958. In 1969 he left Chapel Hill to become Vice-President for Medicine and Dean of the School of Medicine at the Medical School of Georgia.

He returned to Chapel Hill in 1971 as professor of medicine and Dean of the School of Medicine.

The School of Medicine made substantial advances during Fordham's deanship. The school expanded its programs, strengthened its faculty and gained increasing national prominence for its excellence and creativity.

The humanitarian overtones of Fordham's health care and outreach programs in the University are well known to his colleagues. In his time as dean, the School of Medicine initiated a statewide regional education program (the Area Health Education Centers program) which has achieved wide recognition as an educational approach to improving the distribution of physicians and other health professional workers. He also has been associated with the growth and strengthening of many other programs within the health schools.

Fordham has a long background in undergraduate education at Carolina. He, his wife, their three daughters, his father and his uncles all attended the University. He is a member of the Central Selection Committee of the John Motley Morehead Foundation which selects undergraduate Morehead scholars and is a member of the Order of the Golden Fleece.

Fordham has contributed numerous articles to published literature ranging from scientific papers to editorials or papers on health policy. He is the author of one book.

Fordham is married to the former Barbara Byrd of Greensboro. They have three daughters—Pamela Fordham Richey of New Bern, Susan Fordham Crowell of Chapel Hill and Betsy Fordham Templeton of Nashville, Tenn.

Athletic Director John Swofford

John Swofford, a former Tar Heel football player, is beginning his third year as director of athletics at the University of North Carolina.

Swofford became athletic director on May 1, 1980. He was named to the position by Chancellor Christopher Fordham, replacing Bill Cobey who had resigned to pursue public office.

Swofford's first two years on the job have been most successful. In that short time Carolina has won four national collegiate team championships—one in basketball and women's soccer and two in lacrosse. The Tar Heels have finished in the top ten in the nation in both football and basketball for each of the past two years. No other school in the country has accomplished that. Carolina has either won or tied for first in the race for the Carmichael Cup, symbolic of overall athletic excellence in the Atlantic Coast Conference, for the past two years.

Swofford's first two years as athletic director have been busy off the field, too. Carolina has conducted a $30,000,000 fund-raising drive to construct a student activities center which will include a 22,000-seat basketball arena; Boshamer Stadium has been expanded and dressing rooms renovated; three new holes were constructed at Finley Golf Course; the University hosted two ACC Baseball Tournaments; Carolina hosted the NCAA Golf Championships, the AIAW National Soccer Tournament and the AIAW National Softball Tournament; the academic support staff has been expanded; and a new five-year radio contract was signed with Village Companies of Chapel Hill.

In addition, Carolina's athletic department was recently named marketing organization of the year by the North Carolina chapter of the American Marketing Association. That made the Tar Heel department the first sports organization to win that award in this state.

Last spring Swofford was chosen to serve on the NCAA Football Television Committee. This committee and the Division I Basketball Committee are generally regarded as the two most important in the NCAA organization.

These accomplishments are a good indication Swofford is well aware of the problems facing intercollegiate athletics and how to cope with them. But, Chancellor Fordham knew that when he named him athletic director.

"John Swofford is a bright and energetic young administrator with an abundance of enthusiasm for Carolina athletics," says the Chancellor. "He brings imagination, talent and experience into a position that is very important to the University."

That feeling is echoed by Football Coach

Dick Crum and Basketball Coach Dean Smith.

"John has everything involving athletics at an academically-oriented university in the proper perspective," says Crum.

"John is an excellent athletic director," says Smith. "He is the type of young man we need in intercollegiate athletics."

Swofford gives the credit for Carolina's recent successes to the people around him.

"We have an outstanding coaching, administrative and clerical staff, and with their help, our primary goal will be to continue the tradition of integrity and excellence that has been the trademark of Carolina athletics," he says. "Our athletic program is a part of a great university. It is a special place and we will strive to reflect her values and character."

"We will continue our commitment to a strong overall program and we will continually strive to operate on the principle that the student-athletes who are participants in our various sports are our greatest assets. We must be committed to their positive development as individuals while they are a part of our athletic program."

A native of North Wikesboro, N.C., Swofford first came to Carolina as a Morehead Scholar in 1967. He graduated in 1971 with an A.B. in psychology and industrial relations.

He played quarterback and defensive back on Tar Heel football teams in 1969, 1970 and 1971. Those last two teams went to the Peach Bowl and Gator Bowl. He tied a then-school record against Vanderbilt in 1969 by throwing three touchdown passes in one game.

Swofford was named to the ACC Academic Honor Roll and Who's Who in College Athletics. He also served as president of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes on campus.

In 1973 he earned a masters in athletic administration at Ohio University. In his time there Swofford served as a graduate assistant to the assistant business manager of athletics.

From 1973 to 1976 he was athletic ticket manager and assistant to the director of athletic facilities and finance at the University of Virginia. His duties in that job included directing all ticket sales, advertising and promotions. He also handled game contract settlements, stadium and coliseum operations and team travel arrangements.

He returned to Carolina in May, 1976 as assistant athletic director and business manager, handling all the athletic department's business affairs. Among his many other responsibilities were handling fund-raising affairs, team travel and the athletic dining hall. He also coordinated sports camps.

Although he remained assistant athletic director, Swofford dropped the business manager title and was named assistant executive vice-president of the Educational Foundation in January, 1979. In that job he was in charge of the overall financial structure of the athletic department. His position with the Educational Foundation involved general office procedures, membership services and fund-raising.

Swofford is a member of the National Association of Collegiate Athletic Directors and is on the Board of Directors of the Ohio University Athletic Administration Program. He is a member of the Board of Directors of North Carolina National Bank in Chapel Hill and the Board of Directors of The Village Companies Foundation. He serves on the ACC television, football and basketball committees. He is also on the administrative board at University Methodist Church.

A regular jogger, Swofford enjoys reading and tennis. He is married to the former Becky Owens of North Wilkesboro. They have two children, Autumn and Chad.

Head Coach Dick Crum

In just four seasons as head coach at the University of North Carolina, Dick Crum has made a major impact on Atlantic Coast Conference football.

Crum, heading into his ninth season as a head coach, has a career record of 68-22-2. That's a winning percentage of .750 and is the eighth best of any active coach who has been on the major college level at least five seasons.

The only coaches ahead of him in winning percentage are Oklahoma's Barry Switzer, John Robinson of Southern California, Penn State's Joe Paterno, Michigan's Bo Schembechler, Bear Bryant of Alabama, Nebraska's Tom Osborne and Jackie Sherrill of Texas A&M.

In the last three years Crum's teams have posted records of 8-3-1, 11-1 and 10-2. Those 29 wins in a three-year period are more than have ever been compiled by any ACC school in a similar stretch. Carolina's 11-1 record in 1980 equalled the winningest season in school history.

At one point last season the Tar Heels were ranked as high as third nationally before finishing eighth and ninth in the wire service polls. That made Carolina the first team in ACC history ever to finish in the Top Ten of both polls for two straight years. The Tar Heels had been ninth and tenth in the final 1980 rankings.

Carolina's 31-27 victory over Arkansas in last year's Gator Bowl marked the Tar Heels' third straight bowl win under Crum. No other ACC coach has ever won three consecutive bowl games.

Bowl victories are certainly nothing new for Crum, however. Counting two victories at Miami of Ohio, he has a perfect 5-0 record in bowl competition.

But, that's to be expected. Over the years Crum's teams have a history of being well-prepared and ready to play in the really big games. At Miami he guided the Redskins to numerous victories over more highly-regarded opponents. In his time at Carolina, Crum has helped the Tar Heels score impressive wins over Pittsburgh, Michigan, South Carolina, Texas and Arkansas.

"Dick Crum is an outstanding coach," says Carolina Athletic Director John Swofford, "and an outstanding person as well. He has an excellent perspective of what intercollegiate football should be at an institution like Carolina. He's a credit to the game."

Crum, 48, became the Tar Heel coach in January, 1978. He replaced Bill Dooley who had resigned to become athletic director and head coach at Virginia Tech. Prior to coming to Chapel Hill, Crum had been the head coach at Miami for four seasons, posting a 34-10-1 record.

In announcing the selection of Crum as Dooley's replacement, Carolina Chancellor Ferebee Taylor said, "Dick Crum was the unanimous choice of our nominating committee to be the new football coach."

"Coach Crum's outstanding record at Miami University speaks for itself and we are confident that, under his leadership, our football program will continue to maintain Carolina's high standards of excellence."

It has done just that. Crum got off to a rough start as his first Tar Heel team suffered a disappointing 5-6 season in 1978. The problem of players adjusting to a new coaching staff and an assortment of injuries were the major reasons for that losing mark. However, Crum quickly brought Carolina back to national prominence.

His 1979 team had the best record in the ACC, going 8-3-1 and finishing 14th and 15th in the wire service polls. The Tar Heels were the only team in the country to defeat Pittsburgh that year and toppled Michigan, 17-15, in the Gator Bowl.

That was followed by an 11-1 campaign in 1980. The Tar Heels won the ACC championship and led the league in scoring, scoring defense, total offense, total defense and rushing offense. Crum was ACC and District Three Coach of the Year. Carolina whipped Texas, 16-7, in the Bluebonnet Bowl.

Then came last fall's 10-2 season. Carolina led the ACC in total offense, rushing offense, net punting and scoring. In addition, the Tar Heels were fifth nationally in rushing defense, eighth in rushing offense and net punting, 10th in scoring, 11th in total offense and 15th in rushing defense.

Three of Crum's players—offensive guard David Drechsler, outside linebacker Lawrence Taylor and offensive guard Ron Wooten—have earned first-team All-America honors in the last two years. Taylor was the ACC Player of the Year in 1980 and the NFL Defensive Player of the Year last season.

Crum has had five 1,000-yard rushers in his four seasons at Carolina. Tar Heel quarterbacks have ranked first in the ACC in passing two of the last three seasons. Carolina has scored more points and gained more yardage than any other ACC team in the last three years.

Ironically, Crum is best known for his defensive philosophies. And he still says defense will be the key to Carolina's football success.

"I think you win championships with good defensive teams," he says. "Fundamentals are also so important in football. If you play fundamental and sound football and don't make mistakes, you're going to win a lot of games."

Crum certainly plans on winning a lot more games at Carolina. Those who have gotten to know him in his time here have no doubt about that.

"Coach Crum is building one of the best programs in the country here," says one of his former players. "The thing I like about him is he's a player's coach. The players come first to him. He's really interested in doing anything he can for us, whether it relates to football or not."

Former Tar Heel All-America Don McCauley, now a member of the Baltimore Colts, agrees.

"The first time I met Dick Crum, I liked him," says McCauley. "It was very easy to talk to him. I think he's the kind of guy the players here are going to like because his main concern seems to be their futures."

One reason for Crum's good rapport with his young players may be his 12 years of experience as a high school coach. He considers those years great preparation for his college coaching career.

A native of Youngstown, Ohio, Crum attended Boardman High School and then enrolled at Muskingum College. He later transferred to Mount Union College where he received his B.S. degree in 1957, majoring in mathematics with a minor in physics. He also holds an M.Sc. from Western Reserve.

In football, Crum was a non-scholarship halfback. He saw most of his action with the B team and it was there he learned of the great importance of fundamentals.

The first six years of his coaching career were spent as an assistant at Boardman High, Sandusky High and Warren Harding High, all in Ohio.

Crum accepted his first head coaching position in 1963 at Mentor High School in Mentor, Ohio. He compiled a six-year record of 50-9-1, winning three league championships. His record in his last four seasons there was 38-2.

He joined Bill Mallory's Miami staff as defensive backfield coach in 1969.

He was appointed defensive coordinator in 1970 and held that position for four years. While he was defensive coordinator his teams ranked third, fifth, sixth and first in the nation in total defense. The Redskins also topped the nation in rushing defense in 1973.

When Mallory left Miami to become head coach at Colorado after the 1973 season, Crum was named his successor. He won three Mid-American Conference championships in four years there and twice took teams to the Tangerine Bowl. The Redskins defeated Georgia, 21-10, in 1974 and South Carolina, 20-7, in 1975 in those post-season appearances.

Crum's Miami teams had records of 10-0-1 in 1974, 11-1 in 1975, 3-8 in 1976 and 10-1 in 1977.

In his only losing season at Miami, the Redskins lost nine of their 11 starting defensive players in their first two games. After an 0-6 start, however, Crum rallied his team to three wins in its final five games. The Redskins then capped that comeback by going 10-1 in 1977, coming from behind eight times to win.

Miami is known as the "cradle of coaches." Other former coaches at the Oxford school include Woody Hayes, Ara Parseghian, John Pont, Schembechler and Mallory.

Like all those men Crum was extremely successful at Miami. He was selected Ohio Coach of the Year in 1974 and 1975, MAC Coach of the Year in 1974 and District Five Coach of the Year in 1974 and 1977. His 1974 squad finished the season ranked 10th in the wire service polls, the highest rating of any team in MAC history.

Twice Crum was selected to serve as head coach in the Ohio Shrine Bowl Game. He has also been on coaching staffs in the All-America Bowl and the Coaches' All-America Game. He has served on several committees of the American Football Coaches Association and last year was named to the AFCA's board of trustees.

While at Miami, Crum had been considered for other head coaching jobs. However, he had always asked that his name be withdrawn from consideration.

"I had been interviewed at other schools," he says, "but I always left those meetings with very mixed feelings and emotions. After I interviewed at Carolina, I had no such qualms. On the plane ride back to Ohio I told my wife, 'If they offer me the job, I'm going to accept.'"

"The thing that influenced me more than anything else is the fact Carolina is an excellent academic institution as well as a home of great athletics."

In his spare time Crum enjoys fishing and the outdoors in general. Each summer his family takes a two-to-four week fishing trip to Canada. Their vacation spot is in an area just north of North Bay.

Crum also has a great interest in flying. He obtained his pilot's license in the summer of 1980.

Dick is married to the former Shirley Moncur of Delaware, Ohio. She is an Ohio University graduate with degrees in physical education and library science. They have three sons—Mike, 19, and twins, Jeff and Joel, 17.

Assistant Coaches

Bobby Cale (Offensive Backs)

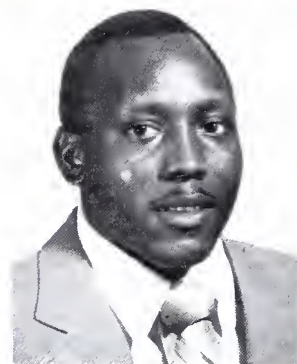

The newest member of the Carolina coaching staff is Bobby Cale, a former star Tar Heel player. Cale joined the Carolina staff last spring. He replaced Cleve Bryant who had resigned to take a position with the New England Patriots. Cale will coach the Tar Heel running backs. Randy Walker, who had that assignment last year, has moved into Bryant's role as quarterback coach.

A native of Wilmington, Del., Cale was a four-year starter at cornerback during his playing days at Carolina. He led the Atlantic Coast Conference in interceptions with five in 1976. He finished his career with 12 interceptions, tying him for second place on the school's all-time interception list.

After graduating in 1979, Cale signed a free agent contract with the Seattle Seahawks. He returned to Chapel Hill that fall to serve as a graduate assistant under Dick Crum.

After spending a year in private business, Cale served as a part-time assistant on Crum's staff last season.

Cale is a bachelor.

Mel Foels (Outside Linebackers)

Beginning his third season on the Tar Heel staff is Mel Foels, coach of the Carolina outside linebackers.

Foels, a native of Toledo, Ohio, is a graduate of Bowling Green where he was an all-conference guard in 1964. An honorable mention academic All-America, Foels received his B.S. in biology and physical education in 1965 and earned his master's in physical education from Bowling Green in 1966.

Mel was head football and wrestling coach at Iowa Wesleyan from 1966 to 1973 and was three times named conference coach of the year. He served as an assistant coach at Iowa in 1973 and at Eastern Kentucky from 1974 to 1976 before joining the Tulsa staff in 1977.

Foels coached the Golden Hurricanes' linebackers for three years and also served as defensive coordinator in 1979. He joined the Carolina staff prior to the 1980 season. His star player that year, Lawrence Taylor, was the Atlantic Coast Conference Player of the Year and a consensus All-America.

Mel and his wife, Dawn, have two daughters, Tracie Lyn and Michelle Denise.

Jack Himebauch (Receivers)

Jack Himebauch, who has worked under Dick Crum for nine years, will again coach Carolina's receivers this season.

A native of Rocky River, Ohio, Himebauch was a star receiver in his own playing days at Miami University. He earned three letters as a tight end under John Pont and Bo Schembechler. He led the Redskins in receptions in both 1963 and 1964. Himebauch had a career total of 43 catches for 614 yards and six touchdowns.

After graduating in 1965, Himebauch was an assistant coach for Crum at Mentor High School for four years. He then spent six seasons as head coach at Darien High School in Connecticut.

Himebauch was an assistant at Fordham University in 1976 before returning to Miami and Crum's staff there in 1977. He coached the tight ends and offensive tackles for the Redskins.

He came with Crum to Carolina in 1978 and worked with the defensive line his first year here. He shifted back to the offense three seasons ago.

Himebauch also directs Crum's summer football camp for youngsters.

Jack and his wife, Cheryl, have three sons—Chris, Curt and Jonathan.

Denny Marcín (Defensive Coordinator and Linebackers)

Denny Marcín is beginning his fifth year as Carolina's defensive coordinator.

In addition to running the entire defense, Marcín also works specifically with the Tar Heel linebackers. He's coached an All-ACC player in each of the past three seasons—Buddy Curry, Darrell Nicholson and Lee Shaffer.

A native of Cleveland, Ohio, Marcín was a two-way guard at Miami University. He received all-conference honorable mention his senior year.

After graduating in 1964, he served as an assistant football coach at Lakewood St. Edward High School for eight years. He then was head coach there for two seasons and had an overall record of 17-2-1. He also was baseball coach for eight years.

Marcín returned to Miami in 1974 to coach the offensive guards and centers. He was named the Redskins' defensive coordinator in 1977 and assumed that same position when he joined Dick Crum at Carolina four years ago.

In addition to football, Marcín also enjoys wrestling and has officiated on the high school, college and professional level.

He and his wife, Betsy, have four children—Jeff, Denny, Melinda and Susie.

Larry Marmie (Defensive Backs)

Coaching the Carolina secondary is Larry Marmie, now in his fourth year on the Tar Heel staff. A native of Barnesville, Ohio, Marmie has 14 years of college coaching experience. He came to Carolina in March, 1979 from the University of Tulsa where he had been defensive coordinator for two seasons.

Tulsa, which had gone 3-8 in 1977, improved its record to 9-2 in 1978 and Marmie's defense was a major reason for that. Two of his players were second-team Associated Press All-Americans that season. Marmie has produced an All-Atlantic Coast Conference player in each of his three years at Carolina—Ricky Barden, Steve Streater and Greg Poole. Poole was a third-team All-America last season.

In his own playing days Marmie was a quarterback at Eastern Kentucky from 1962 to 1965. As a senior he was a squad co-captain and also the team's most valuable player.

He began his coaching career in 1966 as head coach at Berea High School in Kentucky. He spent two seasons there. He then was an assistant coach at Morehead State for three seasons and an assistant at Eastern Kentucky for four years before joining the Tulsa staff.

Marmie and his wife, Linda, have three children—Vicki, Cozy and Larry, Jr.

John Matsko (Offensive Coordinator and Offensive Line)

Coordinating the Carolina offense is John Matsko, who has learned his trade from two of the finest coaches in college football.

Matsko played and coached for Don James at Kent State and is beginning his eighth year as an assistant to Dick Crum. James, of course, took the University of Washington to the Rose Bowl last year and Crum is one of the nation's most successful coaches.

A native of Mentor, Ohio, Matsko played for Crum in high school. He then attended Kent State and was the starting fullback for the Golden Flashes in 1972 when they won the Mid-American Conference championship and went to the Tangerine Bowl. He coached there for one season as a student assistant.

Matsko then spent two seasons as a graduate assistant under Crum at Miami University. He coached at Danbury High for one year, compiling a 6-3 record and winning the Mid-Ohio Conference championship. Matsko returned to Miami in 1977 and came with Crum to Carolina in 1978.

In addition to being offensive coordinator, Matsko also will coach the Tar Heel offensive line. Two of his players, guards David Drechsler and Ron Wooten, have earned first-team All-America honors in the past two seasons.

John and his wife, Kim, have two daughters, Marie and Elizabeth, and a son, John.

Chuck Priefer (Defensive Line)

Chuck Priefer is heading into his fourth season as coach of the Tar Heel defensive tackles and nose guards.

A 1963 graduate of John Carroll University, Priefer coached the defensive secondary in 1978, his first season in Chapel Hill. He was moved to the defensive front when Larry Marmie joined the staff after the 1978 season. Priefer had coached the defensive line at Miami University in 1977 when the Redskins were 10-1.

One of Priefer's players, tackle William Fuller, was named by one publication as the top sophomore defensive player in the country last year.

A native of Parma, Ohio, Priefer started his coaching career as an assistant in football, basketball and baseball at Padua Franciscan High School in 1963. He became head baseball coach in 1965 and assistant athletic director in 1966. His eight-year baseball record was 151-59.

He served as head football coach from 1972 to 1976, compiling a 34-15 record. He then joined Dick Crum's staff at Miami and came with him to Carolina in 1978.

Priefer enjoys good movies, tennis and poker.

He and his wife, Sheila, have four children—Mike, Teri, Jenny and Megan.

Randy Walker (Quarterbacks)

Randy Walker, who has coached Carolina's running backs for the past four years, will work with the Tar Heel quarterbacks this fall.

Walker replaces Cleve Bryant as the quarterback coach. Bryant resigned last spring to accept a position on the New England Patriots' staff.

A 1976 Miami graduate, Walker played on Redskin teams which compiled a 32-1-1 record. His teams won three straight Mid-American Conference championships and three consecutive Tangerine Bowl titles.

Randy finished his playing career as the sixth-leading rusher in Miami history with 1,757 yards. He was selected the team's most valuable player in his senior year after playing tailback, fullback and wingback at different times during the season.

A native of Troy, Ohio, Walker was drafted by the Cincinnati Bengals after graduation. He worked for Dick Crum at Miami as a graduate assistant in 1976 and became a full-time staff member in 1977 as the Redskins went 10-1. He joined Dick Crum at Carolina in January, 1978.

In his four years of working with the Tar Heel running backs, Walker coached five 1,000-yard rushers.

Walker and his wife, Tammy, have a special interest in music. They have a daughter, Abbey, and a son, Jamie.

Charlie Carr (Assistant Athletic Director for Recruiting)

Charlie Carr, who has excelled as both a player and a coach at Carolina, is now assistant athletic director for recruiting at the University.

Carr coordinates all of Carolina's football recruiting and is also available to assist coaches in other sports if needed. However, the great majority of his time is spent on football.

A native of Virginia Beach, Va., Carr was a three-sport star at Princess Anne High School. He then came to Carolina where he was a standout in football and baseball.

Carr was a star end on Tar Heel teams in 1965, 1966 and 1967. He set a school and Atlantic Coast Conference record in 1966 by catching 16 passes in one game against the Air Force Academy. He had 52 receptions that year, tying the school single-season record.

In his senior year Carr led the ACC in batting with a .398 average. He was an all-conference selection as an outfielder.

After graduation, Carr spent two years at Carolina as a graduate assistant and five years as a full-time coach. He then was offensive line coach at Rice University for two seasons. He returned to Chapel Hill in 1978 to coach the Tar Heel tight ends and offensive tackles and then took charge of the Carolina recruiting the following year.

Charlie is married to the former Dee Harrington of Lumberton, N.C.

Paul Hoolahan (Assistant Athletic Director)

As assistant athletic director at Carolina, Paul Hoolahan has major responsibilities in the Tar Heel football program.

Hoolahan manages the financial affairs of the football office. He also coordinates an academic service for student-athletes and supervises the school's athletic fitness program. In addition, Hoolahan oversees the development and maintenance of Carolina's athletic facilities.

Paul was an All-Atlantic Coast Conference tackle here in 1970. He led an offensive line that took Carolina to the Peach Bowl and helped Don McCauley set an NCAA single-season rushing record.

An outstanding student, Hoolahan received a B.A. in English at Carolina and his M.A. in psychology from Columbia University.

Before returning to Chapel Hill in 1976, Hoolahan had been working as the supervisor of the Aquatics Division of Nassau County Recreation and Parks on Long Island. Simultaneously, he had served as football coach and director of physical development at St. Frances Preparatory School.

Hoolahan is currently vice-president of the National Strength Coaches Association. He recently completed two years as that organization's executive director.

John Lacey (Head Trainer)

John Lacey, one of the most honored men in his field, heads an outstanding staff of athletic trainers at Carolina.

Lacey, beginning his 27th year in Chapel Hill, devotes all his attention to the Tar Heel football team. He has worked with 13 bowl teams, 10 of them at Carolina.

One of his greatest honors came in 1972 when he was named head trainer for the United States delegation to the Olympic Games in Munich. He had served as trainer of the U.S. basketball team in the 1964 Games at Tokyo.

In 1977 he was named to the athletic trainers' section of the Citizen Savings (Helms) Hall of Fame.

A native of Wallingford, Conn., Lacey studied at the Yale University Department of Physical Therapy and at the Tilton School in Tilton, N.H. He came to Carolina from Maryland when the late Jim Tatum was named head football coach here in 1956. While at Maryland, he had served teams which won national championships in football and lacrosse.

He was also trainer of the 1957 Carolina basketball team which won the NCAA title. His background includes stints with three professional football teams—the Chicago Rockets, New York Yankees and Baltimore Colts.

Lacey is married to the former Barbara Koch of Wallingford.

Rick Brewer (Sports Information Director)

Rick Brewer is beginning his 15th year in the Carolina Sports Information Office and his eighth as its director.

A native of Winston-Salem, N.C., Brewer is a 1971 Carolina graduate with a B.A. in journalism.

He served as a student assistant in the sports information office for three years and was named the school's first assistant SID upon graduation. He held that position for four years and then was named sports information director in 1975.

In his seven years as SID, Brewer has won awards from CoSIDA (College Sports Information Directors of America) for his football brochure, football game program, basketball brochure, basketball game program, tennis brochure, golf brochure and a recruiting brochure for women.

He is a member of CoSIDA, the Football Writers Association of America, the U.S. Basketball Writers Association and the Atlantic Coast Sports Writers Association. Last spring he handled press arrangements at the NCAA Golf Championships in Pinehurst. During the summer he served as a press officer at the U.S. Olympic Committee's National Sports Festival in Indianapolis.

Brewer is a bachelor.

Dave Lohse (Assistant Sports Information Director)

Dave Lohse is beginning his fourth year as assistant sports information director at Carolina.

Lohse is a 1977 graduate of Purdue University where he was a member of Phi Beta Kappa. He worked in the Boilermaker Sports Information Office for three years as a student assistant.

Lohse then spent two years as a graduate assistant in the Carolina Sports Information Office before being named assistant SID in August, 1979. Although his major responsibilities at Carolina involve non-revenue sports, Dave also assists with the publicizing of Carolina's football team.

Several of Lohse's non-revenue sports publications have won national awards from CoSIDA (College Sports Information Directors of America). Last fall he served as publicity director for the AIAW National Women's Soccer Tournament.

A native of Griffith, Ind., Lohse is a member of CoSIDA, the U.S. Basketball Writers Association and the Atlantic Coast Sports Writers Association.

Lohse is a bachelor.

Monty Woods (Assistant Sports Information Director)

Monty Woods, who served as an intern in the Carolina Sports Information Office last year, will be a full-time staff member this fall.

Woods' internship was the completion of his master of science degree in athletic administration from Ohio University. While his major responsibilities at Carolina concerned non-revenue sports, he also assisted with the publicizing of the Tar Heel football and basketball teams. Last spring he coordinated publicity for the AIAW National Slow-Pitch Softball Tournament.

While studying at Ohio University, Woods had served as a student assistant in the sports information office there.

Woods is a 1980 graduate of West Virginia Tech where he worked as sports information director as a student. He won national awards from CoSIDA (College Sports Information Directors of America) for his football and basketball publications in 1979 and 1980.

Woods is a member of CoSIDA, the National Collegiate Baseball Writers Association, the Atlantic Coast Sports Writers Association and the Society for American Baseball Research.

Monty is single.

The University

When the framers of North Carolina's first state constitution wrote in 1776 that "all useful learning" should be "duly encouraged and promoted in one or more universities," they could not have envisioned just how successful that charge would be met during the next two centuries at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

Chartered in 1789, the year of George Washington's first inauguration, the University at Chapel Hill was the first state university in the nation to open its doors—in 1795—and was the only public university in the nation to award degrees to students in the 18th century.

The charter called for a central location in the state, and the place chosen was called New Hope Chapel, now Chapel Hill, where several Colonial roads converged. Legends hold that William Richardson Davie chose the location, and a massive tree, now called the Davie Poplar and still a campus landmark, helps keep the tale alive. But it is fact that Davie, the state's grand master of Masons, laid the cornerstone for Old East, the University's first building and the oldest state university building in the United States, on Oct. 12, 1793.

The University opened its doors on Jan. 15, 1795, and a month later its first student, Hinton James, arrived by foot. By March 1, there were 41 students and two professors. By 1860, only Yale University had a greater enrollment.

From that beginning, the growth, development and destinies of the state and its citizens have been inseparable from their University at Chapel Hill. The University has trained many of the state's leaders, including almost half its governors, as well as leaders in virtually all walks of life. Graduates attaining national prominence have included the 14th U.S. president, James K. Polk.

Carolina scientists made the first systematic astronomical observations in the nation (1827-31) and built the first observatory at a state university in North America (1832). In the 1820s, the University conducted the nation's first state geological survey.

Carolina was one of the few Southern universities to stay open during the War Between the States, but Reconstruction caused it to close (1870-75) for the only time in its history. Soon after re-opening, it established in 1877 the first summer school at a U.S. college or university.

Programs in medicine and pharmacy followed in 1879, M.A. and Ph.D. degrees were established in 1883, and education courses were offered in 1885.

In 1897, women first were admitted to the University.

The decades following World War I were major periods of growth, and many of the University's 14 schools and more than 70 departments were established, including the schools of Social Work, Public Health, Library Science, Journalism, Business Administration, Dentistry, Nursing and graduate studies.

The Institute of Government was established in 1931 (it remains the largest and most diversified of the university-based governmental training and research organizations in the United States). The next year, Frank Porter Graham was elected the first president of the consolidated University of North Carolina, which then included Carolina, N.C. State University in Raleigh and Women's College, now the University of North Carolina at Greensboro.

Carolina is the largest institution in the University of North Carolina 16-campus system, which replaced the Consolidated University system in 1971. It is the largest and most comprehensive, both in the range of its programs at all levels and in the breadth of the specialized research and public service programs that it provides.

In 1949, the Morehead Planetarium was established, the first university-owned planetarium in the nation.

The last 30 years have seen the University grow, first to 10,000 students and then to more than 20,000 (including Evening College and special off-campus programs). Its 720-acre campus includes 127 permanent buildings with more than seven million square feet of space.

The University's growth has been accompanied by a continued emphasis to its commitment to excellence in education, research and public service.

Undergraduate, graduate and professional programs have received a wide range of honors. Disciplines from Latin American studies and physical therapy to recreation administration and law have been ranked as among the best in the nation. The last American Council on Education national study of graduate programs rated Carolina far more highly than any other state-supported institution in the Southeast.

The schools of Medicine, Dentistry and Nursing all recently received the most favorable accreditation reports.

The faculty of the University, 1,900 full-time and 2,150 in all, has been recognized for quality in many ways, through the selection of its members to prestigious organizations, election to national office in scholarly and professional societies and honors from peers. Their scholarly and research activities, according to the most recent University report, resulted in more than 7,000 publications, including books, journal articles, papers, reviews and abstracts.

The National Institutes of Health ranked the overall quality of research projects submitted to it by Carolina scientists for funding in 1980-81 as the seventh highest in the country (proposals made by School of Medicine faculty alone were ranked fifth), and other measures also have attested to the quality of research efforts at the University.

In 1980-81, the University attracted some 600 grants and contracts from government and private agencies totaling $64 million.

Out of that research in the past year came major findings including a new white blood cell that may have a role to play against cancer, allergies and parasites; a way to put bacteria to work manufacturing cellulose that could revolutionize the textile industry; an experimental drug that significantly reduces inflammation and pain of arthritis; and a group of compounds that seems to control the leading cause of respiratory infections among American children.

The University reaches every county in North Carolina with its educational and cultural programs. Thousands of citizens benefit from the more than 1,500 courses, institutes and seminars on campus and throughout the state. Each year about 100,000 persons visit the Morehead Planetarium, including more than 40,000 school children. The Ackland Art Museum, with some 6,000 works of art, has more than 37,000 persons each year enjoying its traveling exhibitions and permanent collection. The 307-acre N.C. Botanical Garden, with the largest labeled collection of native plants and herbs in the Southeast, is a natural classroom, laboratory and recreational area for thousands.

The N. C. Area Health Education Center Program, operated by the School of Medicine in partnership with the other Carolina health schools, has become a national model for decentralized health education since its founding in 1972. AHEC's mission is to increase the number of physicians and other health professionals in the state and to improve the public's access to health care services in all 100 counties. It has played a key role in increasing the number of primary care physicians in North Carolina to almost twice the national average.

The University's role as teacher has grown in importance with the increase in the number of students it teaches. Its 20,000 students, almost 70 percent undergraduate, 22 percent graduate and 8 percent professional, represent all 100 North Carolina counties, all 50 states, two U.S. territories and more than 60 foreign countries.

Ninety percent of the new freshmen entering Carolina were in the top 20 percent of their high school class. Undergraduate and graduate students annually receive numerous national awards, scholarships and fellowships.

At Carolina they are provided the best possible atmosphere for learning, from a library system ranked first in the Southeast to an athletic program that encompasses both excellence in varsity sports and opportunity for all in intramural sports activities and recreation facilities. The quality of the learning environment is needed to match the quality of the students themselves.

Those students leave Carolina to take key roles in every phase of public life. The state's governor, Jim Hunt, is an alumnus, as 30 of his predecessors have been. A vice president, an acting vice president and 14 cabinet members in the federal government have attended Carolina, as have four current North Carolina members of the House of Representatives and former Sen. Sam Ervin Jr.

Other alumni include Louise Fletcher, Academy Award-winning star of "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest"; Derick Daniels, president of Playboy Enterprises Inc.; Jeff MacNelly, Pulitzer Prize-winning editorial cartoonist and creator of the "Shoe" comic strip; and national journalists such as Vermont Royster, David Brinkley, Tom Wicker, Charles Kuralt and Roger Mudd.

The University ranks 13th nationally among state universities and land grant colleges in the number of alumni who are chief executives of the 500 largest U.S. corporations.

In all, the University's alumni number more than 160,000 as of mid-1981, with 40 percent of that total having graduated in the last 15 years. More than 56 percent live in North Carolina.

In that respect, it has more than remained faithful to its founding fathers' charge to duly encourage and promote all useful learning for the betterment of humanity.

Old East, the oldest state university building in the nation and a National Historic Landmark, still is used for one of its original purposes—a dormitory. Old East's cornerstone was laid Oct. 12, 1793, a date celebrated each year as University Day.

A Town Touched by Strange

Magic

The late Jake Wade wrote this piece a good many years ago. Even today, it captures the spirit of this Town as well as anything we know. Mr. Wade was director of sports publicity at the University at the time of his death.

This is a town touched by strange magic and one to which its peoples, many of them a curious breed, hold a rare and somewhat inexplicable attachment. Our town has no rivers, no mountains, no seas, but in the spring it is beautiful and in all seasons it is both wonderful and sad, romantic in the spirit of the youth it harbors in the educational process of the great State University, which is the town's principal industry.

Chapel Hill, where bells wake you in the morning, regardless of whether you live in the Beta house, Cobb dormitory or on Laurel Hill Road, and where the bells keep ringing periodically the day long, with the chimes taking over in the majesty of twilight and on certain important occasions such as the big football games.

Not really a village any more, although its inhabitants, some living in the past, like to consider it as such . . . None of us will go so far as to say that it possesses the tranquillity and serenity of the Twenties, when Thomas Wolfe, and Paul Green and LeGette Blythe and "Monk" McDonald and the Carmichaels found adventure, melancholy and beauty in their diverse pursuits on the old campus and the unexplored lands beyond . . . It is not as small, and not quite as nice, but almost, and there is a whole new world of knowledge to be discovered here with resources of mind and matter in abundance.

Chapel Hill, where the civic clubs do not sing, salute flags or wear badges, but unostentatiously and quietly engage in humanitarian projects as earnestly as their backslapping counterparts of the cities . . . Where its only commercial radio station taboos hillbilly tunes and plays sweet music and deathless great arias.

In Chapel Hill that man in dungarees, coming out of the post office, is just as apt to be a best-selling novelist as the town's leading plumber or the divorced author of profound treatises on the science of nuptial compatibility . . . Where shoe shines, on the most modest leather, cost you twenty cents per copy, with the same treatment from five to ten cents cheaper in a much larger town across the way, but there you are not waited on by one of the town's most popular citizens who contributes philosophy, sound sense and remarkably accurate football prognostications as a dividend to the dab of mundane polish.

People in our town go to church, pray, are kind and considerate, both the students and the townspeople, as in all towns . . . But where some of the ministers never wear hats, do wear sweaters, and sometimes drive the more modest editions of those little foreign make sports cars, but their democracy in manners is no compromise with the dignity of their souls, for our town is blessed with able and Godly preachers.

Chapel Hillians, like the folks in your town or city, play poker and bridge, but strangely, little or no gin rummy, and they play golf and handball . . . Chapel Hill, where the tiniest tots are able swimmers, and old men play an exciting brand of tennis . . . Where there are circles and cliques, as in all towns, for the socials, round tables and sports, but where those who travel together are frequently of oddly dissimilar tastes . . . A famous singer breaks bread often and attends games with a Kenan professor . . . A coach has tea regularly with a brilliant author . . . A university department head finds more wisdom, truth and beauty in the philosophy of a bistro keeper than in the ivory towers of his own intellectual level and prefers his company . . . But Chapel Hill is a town of neighbors who are bird watchers and who tend their flowers with loving care and talk over stone walls and drink their coffee or cocktails while talking oftenest about their children and grandchildren . . . That's Chapel Hill. God bless our town and its gentle way of life.

1981 Gator Bowl

North Carolina scored 21 straight second-half points and then put down a late Arkansas rally to defeat the Razorbacks, 31-27, in the 1981 Gator Bowl.

The Tar Heels snapped a 10-10 halftime tie by scoring on their first two possessions of the third quarter. Ethan Horton and Rod Elkins capped long touchdown drives with one-yard plunges. A four-yard run by Horton midway in the final period gave Carolina a 31-10 lead.

However, Arkansas then began a comeback. Helped by a controversial onside kick, the Razorbacks cut the Tar Heel lead to 31-25. Carolina then took an intentional safety and got a big defensive play from backup nose guard Ronnie Snipes to preserve the win.

Biggest heroes of the night for the Tar Heels were Kelvin Bryant and Horton, who tied in voting for the most valuable player. Each had 27 carries in the game, Bryant gaining 148 yards and Horton adding 144. Horton got more playing time than had been expected because Bryant was in and out of the lineup with leg cramps.

Much of the game was played in a dense fog. The field was so obscured that ABC Television had to take most of its shots from ground level cameras.

Carolina got on the scoreboard first as Brooks Barwick kicked a 31-yard field goal on the Tar Heels' initial possession. However, a 66-yard bomb from Arkansas quarterback Brad Taylor to Derek Holloway pushed the Razorbacks ahead, 7-3, at the end of the first quarter.

The Tar Heels took advantage of an Arkansas mistake to go back ahead. A Jeff Hayes' punt was touched by the Razorbacks' Mike Harris and Larry James recovered on the Arkansas six-yard line early in the second period. Bryant scored from the one and Hayes' second of four PATs made it 10-7.

Arkansas came back to tie the game with just four seconds remaining in the half on a 28-yard field goal by Bruce Lahay.

Carolina dominated the third quarter. Taking the second half kickoff, the Tar Heels went 86 yards in 13 plays to score. The biggest play in the drive was a 34-yard pass interference penalty. Horton got the TD on a short plunge.

The Razorbacks bounced right back. Taking the ball on their own 20, they drove to a first down on the Carolina five-yard line. A key play in the drive was a 43-yard pass from Taylor to Gary Anderson. The Tar Heel defense, led by linebacker Chris Ward, held and a 19-yard field goal attempt by Lahay failed.

Carolina then went 80 yards for another TD. A 20-yard run by Horton and a 13-yard sprint by Bryant were the biggest plays in a 10-play drive. Elkins sneaked from the one to get the touchdown.

A pass interception by Darryl Lucas got the Tar Heels going in the fourth quarter. Carolina went 50 yards in 10 plays for the score. Horton gained 47 of the 50 yards on eight carries. His four-yard scoring run with 7:29 to play seemed to give the Tar Heels a comfortable 31-10 lead.

But, that's when the Razorbacks began to move. Taylor drove his team 80 yards in just seven plays for a touchdown. Key plays in the drive were a 17-yard pass to Jessie Clark and a 44-yard toss to Holloway. Clark scored on a three-yard plunge and then added a two-point conversion on a pass from Taylor. That made it, 31-18, with 5:05 left.

Moments later, Arkansas recovered an onside kick at the Tar Heel 46. Carolina argued that the ball did not travel 10 yards, but that was to no avail. On first down, Taylor threw 43-yards to Holloway at the UNC three-yard line. Carolina defenders stopped the Razorbacks for no yardage on three downs from there. But on fourth down, Taylor hit tight end Darryl Mason with a touchdown pass. With 2:44 to play, Lahay's PAT cut the Carolina lead to 31-25.

The Tar Heels could not get a first down on their next possession. Rather than risk a punt from deep in his own territory, Carolina Coach Dick Crum had Hayes take an intentional safety.

A 29-yard return by Anderson on the ensuing free kick gave Arkansas excellent field position at the Carolina 49. But on a third down play, Snipes sacked Taylor for a 17-yard loss. A desperation fourth down pass fell incomplete and Carolina had won its third straight bowl game.

Noting The Tar Heels

Last season Carolina became the first school in Atlantic Coast Conference history to finish in the top ten of both wire service football polls for two straight years.

The Tar Heels were eighth in the final United Press International poll and ninth in the last Associated Press poll. Carolina had been rated ninth and 10th in the final 1980 rankings. In addition, Carolina finished 14th in the final 1979 UPI poll and 15th in the last AP poll that year.

Highly-rated teams are nothing new for Carolina Coach Dick Crum. His 1974 Miami of Ohio team finished 10th in the nation, the highest ranking ever for a Mid-American Conference team.

Carolina was the only school in the country last year to have both its football and basketball teams finish in the top ten of the wire service polls. The Tar Heel basketball team was first in both the final UPI and AP polls. Carolina and Notre Dame were the only schools to accomplish that feat in 1980.

Carolina earned seven spots on the 1981 All-Atlantic Coast Conference team.

Named to the offensive unit were guards David Drechsler and Ron Spruill and tailback Kelvin Bryant. Carolina's defensive selections were tackle William Fuller, linebacker Lee Shaffer and cornerback Greg Poole. Jeff Hayes was named the all-league punter.

The selection of Drechsler and Spruill as the All-ACC guards marked the first time in conference history that one school had both of the guards on the all-conference team.

When offensive guard David Drechsler was named to the All-America team chosen by the Football Writers Association of America, it marked the first time a Carolina junior had been so honored since 1948.

Charlie Justice and Art Weiner won All-America accolades during their junior seasons in 1948. Although Carolina has had numerous All-Americans since then, all have been seniors.

Carolina's 4,573 yards in total offense last year was the second-highest total by the Tar Heels in history. The 1974 team set the all-time school record with 4,691 yards.

Carolina led the Atlantic Coast Conference in total offense, rushing, scoring and net punting. The Tar Heels were second in the league in total defense, scoring defense and punt returns.

Nationally, Carolina finished 11th in total offense, eighth in rushing, 10th in scoring, fifth in scoring defense, eighth in net punting and eighth in punt returns.

With 344 points, last year's team was the third-highest scoring squad in school history. The only teams to score more points in regular-season play were the 1914 team with 359 and the 1929 team with 346.

When Carolina toppled Arkansas, 31-27, in last season's Gator Bowl, the Tar Heels became the first team in Atlantic Coast Conference history to win bowl games in three straight years.

Carolina had beaten Texas, 16-7, in the 1980 Bluebonnet Bowl and Michigan, 17-15, in the 1979 Gator Bowl.

In the last three years Carolina has compiled an overall record of 29-6-1. No other school in Atlantic Coast Conference history has ever won that many games in a three-year period.

Dick Crum now has a career record of 68-22-2. That's a winning percentage of .750. He ranks eighth among active coaches in winning percentage.

Kelvin Bryant and Ethan Horton were co-winners of the most valuable player award in last year's Gator Bowl game with Arkansas.

Bryant rushed for 148 yards on 27 carries although he was bothered much of the second half by leg cramps. Horton got added playing time because of Bryant's injury and responded with 144 yards on 27 attempts.

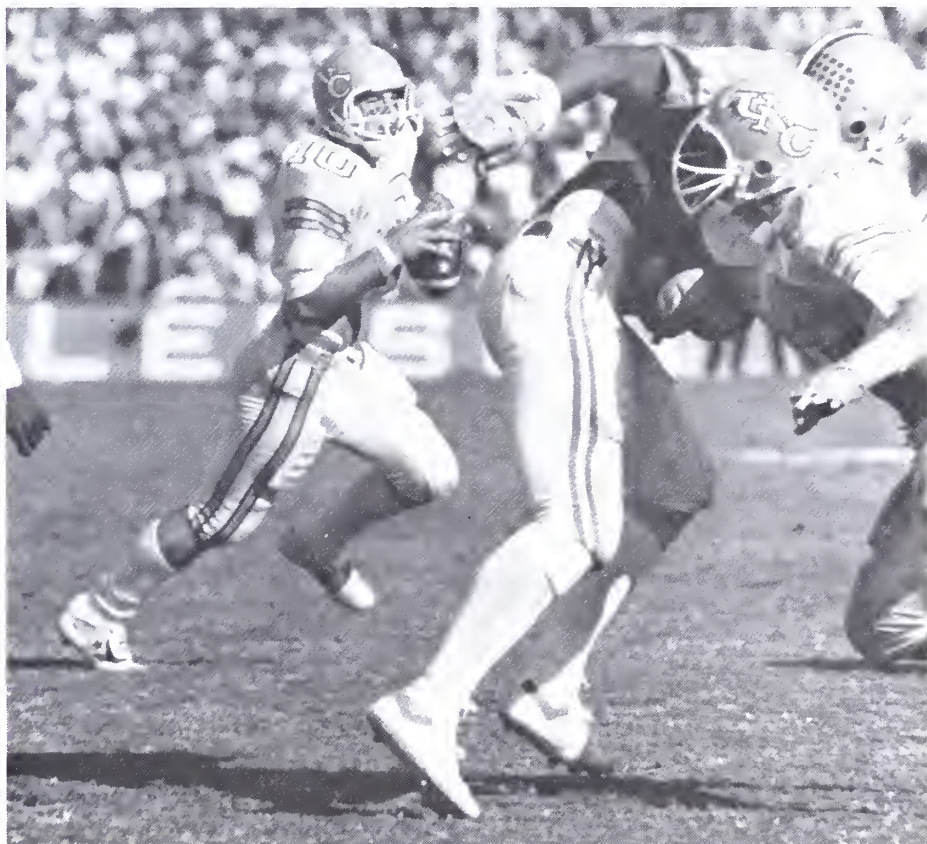

In two years as Carolina's starting quarterback, Rod Elkins has helped the Tar Heels compile a record of 21-3. In games in which Elkins has been healthy, the Carolina record is 20-1.

Elkins heads into his senior season with 150 completions in his Tar Heel career. He currently ranks ninth on the all-time Carolina completion list. However, in just two years as a starter, Elkins already has tossed 20 touchdown passes. That's the third-highest total in school history. Only Matt Kupec (33) and Charlie Justice (25) have thrown more.

Six of the top 12 single-game rushing performances in Atlantic Coast Conference history have been turned in by Carolina tailbacks.

In fact, the best three rushing totals ever in the ACC belong to Tar Heels. Amos Lawrence holds the league record with 286 yards against Virginia in 1977. The second best mark is Don McCauley's 279 yards against Duke in 1970. Third on the list is Mike Voight's 261 yards against Duke in 1976.

Other Tar Heels in the top 12 are Kelvin Bryant (6th) with his 247 yards against Duke in 1981, Voight (10th) with his 228 yards against Clemson in 1975 and Tyrone Anthony (12th) with his 224 yards against Wake Forest in 1981.

Kenan Stadium

Nestled among the tall pine trees near the center of the Carolina campus is Kenan Stadium, home of the Tar Heels.

It is here in this beautiful natural valley that Carolina teams have played their games for 54 years. This is where the action is—the color, the motion and the pageantry of Carolina football.

Kenan Stadium is generally referred to as one of the most beautiful football arenas in the country. Considering its majestic setting, some say it is THE most beautiful. Little can be done to enhance its natural beauty. In fact, most of the work on the stadium has been directed toward keeping up the natural setting.

Last year INSIDE SPORTS rated Kenan Stadium one of the five best places in America to watch a college football game. For scenery, atmosphere and charm, it can't be surpassed.

William Rand Kenan, Jr. deserves the credit for making the stadium a part of the University. He was born in North Carolina in 1873 and was an 1894 Carolina graduate. The late Mr. Kenan, who died in 1966, was an international industrialist. He discovered carbide and made monumental progress in the field of chemistry.

The stadium was built as a memorial to his parents, William R. Kenan and Mary Hargrave Kenan. Construction began in November, 1926 and was completed in August of the following year. Carolina defeated Davidson, 27-0, in the first game played there, November 12, 1927.

Carolina's all-time record in Kenan is 164-101-14. The most points scored by the Tar Heels in Kenan came in the third game played there. Carolina toppled Wake Forest, 65-0, in the 1928 season opener.

As originally built, the stadium seated 24,000. However, in later years Mr. Kenan added portable stands and then an upper deck to the permanent stands, bringing capacity to 48,000. Work was done in the stadium four years ago to increase that to 49,500.

After the 1976 season Kenan Fieldhouse underwent a massive renovation. The building was expanded to 30,000 square feet of dressing rooms, coaches' offices, weight-training quarters, lounges, meeting rooms and other facilities.

Besides giving the stadium to the University, Mr. Kenan also sponsored and financed the famous Kenan Professorships. He was awarded the honorary degree of LL.D. by his alma mater in 1944.

Every game in the stadium was sold out last year. In fact, every ticket was sold before the season even began.

Seven games will be played in Kenan Stadium this fall. The Tar Heels will play host to Vanderbilt, Army, Georgia Tech, N.C. State, Maryland, Virginia and Bowling Green.

The Outlook

Pittsburgh's Sugar Bowl victory over Georgia last season pushed the Panthers to the number two spot in the final national polls. New Head Coach Foge Fazio now shoots for the national title with a deep and talented team. The Panthers return 18 starters from last year's 11-1 squad. That group includes three first-team All-Americans—quarterback Dan Marino, offensive tackle Jimbo Covert and split end Julius Dawkins. Marino was second in the nation last year in passing, while Dawkins' 15 TD catches in regular-season play was the national high. While the Panther offense is explosive, the defense is also outstanding. Pitt led the nation last fall in total defense and rushing defense.

The Outlook

The Vanderbilt football team, which broke 30 school records and tied two others last year, must come up with key replacements in the offensive and defensive lines if it is to continue its improvement. The Commodores, who passed for 3,036 yards last year while utilizing their "smorgasboard offense" (a little bit of everything), doubled their number of wins for the second straight year. Although three starting offensive linemen and both regular defensive tackles have graduated, quarterback Whit Taylor is back along with three players who caught 42 or more passes last season—tight end Allama Matthews, tailback Norman Jordan and fullback Ernie Goolsby. Defensive headliners are end Steve Bearden and strong safety Manuel Young. Punter Jim Arnold is a two-time All-SEC selection.

The Outlook

Hopes are high at West Point for Army's first winning season since 1977. The Cadets return 30 lettermen from last year, including 13 starters. Although depth is a concern, Army has more experience and speed than last fall. There is good size in both lines. Quarterback Bryan Allem, halfback Gerald Walker and fullback Warren Waldorff comprised the starting backfield for most of the 1981 season and that unit returns intact. Walker rushed for 1,053 yards last fall and should surpass Glenn Davis as the all-time leading rusher in Cadet history. The strength of the defense figures to be the secondary where eight lettermen are back.

The Outlook

With 18 returning starters among 58 returning lettermen, Georgia Tech should be very similar to the 1981 team personnel-wise, but with new offensive and defensive coordinators, the Yellow Jackets will sport a new look on both sides of the line. Freshman All-America tailback Robert Lavette heads up the backfield with Jim Bob Taylor and Stu Rogers battling to replace four-year starter Mike Kelley at quarterback. The offensive line, led by tackles David Lutz and Ellis Gardner, returns intact. Defensively, Tech has switched from the 3-4 to the fifty. Linebackers Rob Horton and Duane Wood, the Jackets' top two tacklers last year, head up that unit.

The Outlook

Injuries and inexperience played a major factor in Wake Forest's 4-7 record last year. The younger players gained experience last season, but the Deacons are still a very young team. Offensively, Wake will once again be led by record-breaking quarterback Gary Schofield, who threw for over 2,500 yards in 1981. Schofield has a fine set of receivers, featuring All-ACC tight end Phil Denfeld. The running game should be improved with the return of Dan Dougherty and Duane Owens and some talented incoming freshmen. Defensively, the Deacons must improve over last season when they finished last in the ACC in total defense. The secondary appears solid, but there is inexperience along the defensive line.

The Outlook

An unsettled quarterback situation is the major problem at N.C. State this fall. The Wolfpack returns 42 lettermen, including 12 starters, from last year. The offensive line is big and experienced and there is an excellent group of runners, headed by Joe McIntosh. However, Coach Monte Kiffin did not settle on a starting signal-caller in the spring and calls that his biggest concern. Strong points on defense are the secondary and the linebacker spots. State rates free safety Eric Williams one of the nation's best. There is inexperience along the defensive front and the kicking game must be rebuilt.

The Outlook

"Something new in '82" is the theme in College Park as Bobby Ross takes over the Maryland coaching duties. Ross brings a new offensive look to Maryland with his multiple pro attack that he hopes will have a 50-50 balance between the run and pass. The Terps will utilize a split backfield and two wide receivers with a drop-back passing game. Defensively Maryland will retain the wide-tackle six that Ross has used in the past. Key performers for the Terps should include quarterback Boomer Esiason, tight end John Tice and defensive linemen Mike Corvino, Gurnest Brown and Mark Duda. The schedule, featuring four bowl teams, will be most difficult.

The Outlook

An examination of the final AP and UPI polls over the past 30 years tells Danny Ford and his players that it could be difficult to defend the national championship. While history does not give Clemson much reason for optimism, a look at the Tigers' personnel chart for 1982 might not send chills up and down the spines of the Clemson faithful. Eleven starters in all have departed off the greatest team in Clemson history, but there are some talented performers returning. The entire backfield (quarterback Homer Jordan, tailback Cliff Austin and fullback Jeff McCall) returns along with some talented backup runners. Six out of the top eight are back in the secondary as are punter Dale Hatcher and place-kickers Donald Igwebuike and Bob Paulling.

The Outlook

New Head Coach George Welsh expects wide-open competition for all positions this fall as 48 lettermen return from last season's 1-10 team. Inexperience will be a major problem along the defensive front and at linebacker. However, Pat Chester heads up a veteran secondary. Incumbent starter Gordie Whitehead will battle transfer Wayne Schuchts for the quarterback job. The running game should be improved with the return of tailback Quentin Walker, out much of last season with an injury. The receiving corp, led by tight end Kevin Riccio and flanker Henry Johnson, is deep and experienced. The offensive line returns intact and features 6-7, 268-pound tackle Dave Sullivan.

The Outlook

With 12 starters returning from the school's first winning team in seven years, the Duke Blue Devils will be looking to scale greater heights in 1982. Coach Red Wilson is counting on a well-balanced, explosive offense to help the Blue Devils improve on last year's 6-5 mark. Juniors Ben Bennett and Ron Sally make an excellent team at quarterback and the Duke running game came to life last season behind the play of 'mighty mite' backs Greg Boone (5-9) and Mike Grayson (5-7). Offensive tackle Robert Oxendine will vie for All-America honors. On defense, many questions still remain, but veteran returnees Bill Obremsky and Emmett Tilley should provide some stability.

The Outlook

Forty-four lettermen, including 19 starters, return from last year's Bowling Green team that recovered from an 0-4-1 start to win five straight games and wind up 5-5-1 overall and 5-3-1 in the Mid-American Conference. All 11 offensive starters are back, led by All-MAC tailback Bryant Jones. On defense, eight starters return, headed by all-conference safety Martin Bayless. The kicking game should be sound with the return of placekicker Gehad Youssef and All-MAC punter Jim Phelps. The keys to Bowling Green's chances in 1982 are improving the passing game and restructuring the defensive line.

BOWLING GREEN (First Meeting)

The Educational Foundation

One of the most important organizations in the Carolina Athletic Department is the University's Educational Foundation.

It is the Educational Foundation which makes possible all athletic scholarships awarded by Carolina.

As the Tar Heels' sports program has grown through the years, the Foundation has done likewise. It currently has over 4,500 members who finance a scholarship program that costs $1,000,000 a year.

"Since its inauguration in 1938, the Foundation has provided scholarships, either partial or full, for over 3,000 student-athletes," says Ernie Williamson, the Foundation's executive vice-president.

Williamson feels the overall bonus of being a Foundation member is helping a worthy young student obtain a college education. He says the high caliber young athlete who is awarded a scholarship is a great representative of the University.

Any donation to the Foundation is welcome. However, membership in the Rams Club is restricted to those who contribute $150 or more.

Carolina was one of the first schools in the nation to set up an endowment program for athletics. This program was started in 1968 and has already surpassed the $6,000,000 mark.

The endowment program consists of $50,000 endowed scholarships, life memberships of $15,000 and $30,000, wills and bequests and a new dimension—a pooled income fund. Under the pooled income plan, a member gives a principal sum to the Foundation and then receives the interest off that during the remainder of his life.

A special room on the south wing of Kenan Fieldhouse serves as a meeting place for Rams and their families. This area is open two hours before football games and provides a lounge and picnic area for those who come early.

The Foundation operates on a dignified and realistic plane in compliance with all of the regulations of the National Collegiate Athletic Association and the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Other members of the Foundation staff are Moyer Smith, John Cherry and Neal Harrell. Along with Williamson, Mary Baggett, Kaye Koenig and Jean Gunter, they have made the Foundation better able to serve its members.

"We couldn't have the type program we do without the Educational Foundation," says Athletic Director John Swofford. "We've enlarged our staff in the last two years and I think the staff additions we have made will enable us to do a better job for our members."

Ernie Williamson

The man who stands at the helm of the Educational Foundation is popular Ernie Williamson, the executive vice-president.

The former star Carolina tackle is one of the most active individuals on the Tar Heel sports scene. He is constantly on the go—talking with Foundation members, speaking to prospective members or avidly following all of Carolina's athletic teams.

Williamson is a Carolina graduate with A.B. and M.A. degrees. The native of Crewe, Va. played one season of football here under Carl Snively and was regarded as an outstanding tackle. He was lured away to professional football and played with New York and Washington before a knee injury ended his career.

Williamson returned to Chapel Hill to finish work on his degrees and then went to the University of the South at Sewanee, Tenn. He was an assistant coach there for two years and head coach for three seasons.

He returned to Carolina in 1957 to accept his present position. At one time he also served as a recruiter for the football program.

Williamson is highly respected in his field. He has served three terms as president of the National Association of Athletic Fund-Raisers.

Ernie is married to the former Elva Smith of Lawrenceville, Va. They have a son, Wayne, and a daughter, Carole.

The First Forward Pass

While it is foolish to state emphatically that the first forward pass was thrown by a North Carolina football team, certain records would indicate as much. No less an authority than John Heisman himself credits the Tar Heels with the game's first pass.

The scene was Atlanta on October 26, 1895. Carolina and Georgia were locked in a scoreless struggle in the game's closing moments. The Tar Heels were in a punting situation deep in their own territory. Here is an account of what then happened as reported by Heisman in a 1928 edition of Collier's Weekly:

"The North Carolina fullback retreated until the crossbar of his goal was above his head and from the Georgia stands came the exhortation to 'block it, block it, block it.'

"And Georgia's forwards, gathering all their waning strength and riding over North Carolina's tired defense, might have blocked it and even scored, had the sturdy boy from North Carolina kicked.

"But instead of punting into the leaping bodies of those onrushing Georgians, he ran a few mincing steps to the right. Raising the ball to his shoulder he tossed it.

"Luck was with the boy. The ball was caught by a North Carolinian. Now as we know forward passes, it wasn't much. It traveled a few yards and laterally was well as forward. It may have appeared to the spectators that it had been knocked from that fullback's hands.

"At any rate the lad who caught it ran 70 yards for a touchdown!

"I had seen the first forward pass in college football. It was illegal, of course. Already Pop Warner, the Georgia coach, was storming at the referee. But the referee had not seen the North Carolina lad, goaded to desperation, toss the ball. A touchdown had been made and a touchdown it remained."

Other accounts of the game do not mention the forward pass. However, George Stephens is credited with a 70-yard touchdown run in the game.

At any rate, Heisman wrote that he immediately saw the possibilities that the forward pass had. He personally wrote Walter Camp about the play.

The forward pass was discussed for several years. It became a part of the rules at Camp's suggestion in 1906.

Certainly, the idea of the pass had to come from something. It may well have been Carolina's strange play in 1895.

Carolina's 1,000-yard Rushers

Carolina has had eleven 1,000-yard rushers in the last nine years. That's the most of any school in the country in that period.

Sammy Johnson reached the magic figure in 1973, Mike Voight and James Betterton in 1974, Voight again in 1975 and 1976, Amos Lawrence in 1977, 1978, 1979 and 1980 and Kelvin Bryant in 1980 and 1981.

Carolina has had 13 1,000-yard rushers in its football history. The only school with more is Southern California with 14.

Twice, 1974 and 1980, Carolina has had two players on the same team each hit 1,000 yards. That has happened only nine other times in collegiate history. Only at Carolina have the players shared the same position, Voight and Betterton in '74 and Lawrence and Bryant in '80.

Lawrence and Tony Dorsett are the only major college players to rush for 1,000 yards four times. Lawrence's career total of 4,391 yards is a school record and the 10th highest figure in NCAA history.

Don McCauley set the Tar Heels' all-time single-season rushing record in 1970. He ran for 1,720 yards that year, breaking O.J. Simpson's NCAA single-season record.

The player who made the biggest impact on the National Football League last year may have well been a rookie—Lawrence Taylor, the sensational linebacker of the New York Giants.

Rarely has a defensive newcomer achieved what Taylor did in his first year in the NFL. But, rarely has a rookie entered the professional ranks with the ability of Taylor.

Taylor's tremendous initial success with the Giants came as no surprise to those who had followed his great collegiate career at the University of North Carolina.

And the fact Taylor played at Carolina was no surprise to NFL fans. The Tar Heels have been turning out star linebackers for years.

The biggest star of them all may well be Taylor. Not only was he chosen the league's defensive rookie of the year by everyone who makes such a selection, but he also was named NFL Defensive Player of the Year by the Associated Press. He received more votes than any other NFC player in balloting for the Pro Bowl.

The second player chosen in the 1981 college draft, Taylor helped turn around the Giant franchise last season. New York, which had only a 4-12 record in 1980, improved to 9-7 last year. The Giants made the playoffs for the first time since 1963.

The major reason for this improvement was an outstanding defense featuring Taylor. The New York offense wasn't great by any means, but the defense was good enough to offset that.

New York's media, regarded by some as skeptical and cynical, treated Taylor almost reverently. That's the type of season he had.

Taylor had a similar season in his senior year at Carolina. He was a consensus All-America and the Atlantic Coast Conference Player of the Year.

However, as mentioned earlier, Taylor was not the first Tar Heel linebacker to reach stardom in the NFL. Two years ago the best rookie linebacker in the league was former Carolina star Buddy Curry of the Atlanta Falcons.

Two other former Tar Heel linebackers helped their teams reach the Super Bowl during the 1970's. Chris Hanburger sparked a Redskin defense which took Washington to Super Bowl VII. John Bunting was a key performer for the Philadelphia Eagles when they reached Super Bowl XV.

Hanburger is one of four former Tar Heel linebackers who have played in the Pro Bowl in the last 20 years. The others are Taylor, Bill Koman of the St. Louis Cardinals and Rip Hawkins of the Minnesota Vikings.

Taylor, Hawkins, Hanburger and Curry were all two-time All-ACC selections during their college days. Jimmy DeRatt, a linebacker at Carolina in the early 1970's, also was a two-time all-conference choice.

Other Tar Heel linebackers who have made the All-ACC team since 1970 are Bunting, Bill Richardson, Mike Mansfield, Darrell Nicholson and Lee Shaffer.

Two Carolina linebackers were selected in the NFL draft last spring—Calvin Daniels in the second round by Kansas City and Nicholson in the sixth round by the Giants.

Choo Choo

The Incomparable Charlie Justice

There is an understandable tendency by sports fans to be wary when an athlete is called "the absolute greatest ever" or "the best who ever played."

It is so difficult to compare athletes of the past with those of today that such descriptions are generally regarded as exaggerations of overzealous publicists.

Even with that in mind, however, it is undeniably safe to say that the greatest all-around football player ever to wear Carolina Blue was Charlie "Choo Choo" Justice.

Some have even said Charlie Justice was the best all-around player in the history of the South. We won't go that far even though there's a good chance it's true. We don't want to make our readers too wary.

Charlie Justice was more than just a great football player. He was a bonafide superstar... a hero... a legend in his own time. He had an impact on his home state as no other athlete had ever had before or few have had since.

During his four years in Chapel Hill, from 1946 to 1949, Justice helped guide the Tar Heels to three major bowl games. For one week during the 1948 season Carolina was ranked as the nation's number one college football team. The Tar Heels ended that year rated third, the best finish in school history.

It is no wonder then he was held in great esteem by everyone in the state. Certainly, the time was right for a hero like Charlie Justice. The war had just ended and people wanted to turn their attention to more pleasant things. They wanted someone to make them forget the trauma they had just suffered. So they looked for heroes and they found Charlie Justice.

In his book, They Made The Bell Tower Chime, Bob Quincy summed up Charlie Justice's college career quite succinctly. With the author's permission, an excerpt is repeated here.

The Justice Era of 1946-49 was the most exciting in Carolina's football history. Charlie was the ringleader of a circus of thrills. He set the pace, but his backing was superb. Carl Snavely had so many football players he couldn't have named them all had he taken a memory course. The Tar Heels operated from the single wing with the kind of variations that at times resembled the Harlem Globetrotters' pre-game ball-handling act. The four seasons netted 32 victories, seven losses and two deadlocks. Plus three major bowl appearances.

The 170-pound Justice was one of the nation's most sought-after players when he enrolled at Carolina. Some called him the hottest property in the history of football at that time. He had been a standout at Asheville's Lee Edwards High, leading the Maroons to two unbeaten seasons. He was All-Southern two years at Asheville, and as a member of the Shrine Bowl football team in 1942 he scored three touchdowns against South Carolina, a record that still stands.

The Navy became home for Charlie during the war years, and he became a phantom on a pro-studded Bainbridge Navy squad. After two years of romping for Bainbridge against opponents across the country, he was a target for pro offers from the Philadelphia Eagles and Washington.

Charlie wanted an education, and scouts stayed in pursuit. He chose Chapel Hill after seriously considering South Carolina and Duke. An off-hand remark by Snavely—"I hope he comes out for football"—became a classic understatement.

Justice was all his press clippings indicated—and more.

Smart! Example: In the Virginia Tech opener, Justice had two kicks blocked. He bristled and vowed it would never happen again. It didn't during his collegiate career.

After Virginia Tech's 14-14 stalemate, a shocker to say the least, the Tar Heels played at Miami. Early in the game, Justice went back to punt. The Hurricane came hard with an all-out rush to block him. He faked the kick and ripped off a 65-yard touchdown run.

In the Virginia game his freshman year he gained 170 yards in 17 carries with runs of 18, 40 and 56 yards. He had seen little practice because of a leg injury, but the Cavaliers were certain he carried a spare appendage.

Choo Choo (he acquired the name at Bainbridge when a gob remarked, "He runs along just like a choo choo train,") was excitement. He was all eagerness on the sidelines and all business when he moved into the tailback slot. He thrived on duty, and he was a master of the quick kick, a devastating rusher, a good passer, and a fake artist who could charm a cobra.

Jack Fitch, a thick-legged back who occasionally shared duty with Justice when not playing the wing, sized up Charlie's style by noting, "Justice has the ability to be running at full speed, stop suddenly, and then be back at full speed almost instantly. He was never regarded as fast in terms of a track man. He had a change of pace that couldn't be matched, and he knew how to follow blockers as well as any back I've ever watched."

Justice was blessed by having excellent blocking backs in front of him (Joe Wright, Don Hartig, Eddie Knox, Paul Rizzo, Bobby Weant) and two fullbacks in Hosea Rodgers and Walt Pupa who could pass as well as run. Pupa had been a tailback in pre-war years.

The Snavely system called for a spinning fullback, fakes and counter fakes, fullback pass plays and reverses. It was a dashing brand of football made more exciting by men who had the ability and maturity to accept Snavely's often complicated maneuvers.

A book, "Choo Choo," documents the career of Charlie Justice. He was a folk hero and deserved the special treatment. The great Benny Goodman and the late Johnny Long recorded the Campbell-Beebe song, "All the Way Choo Choo." It sold by the thousands.

Typical of Justice was the Georgia game of 1948. He scored three times against the Bulldogs in a 21-14 triumph, the climax being an 84-yard punt return. At mid-way point that season, the Tar Heels were ranked No. 1 in the nation.

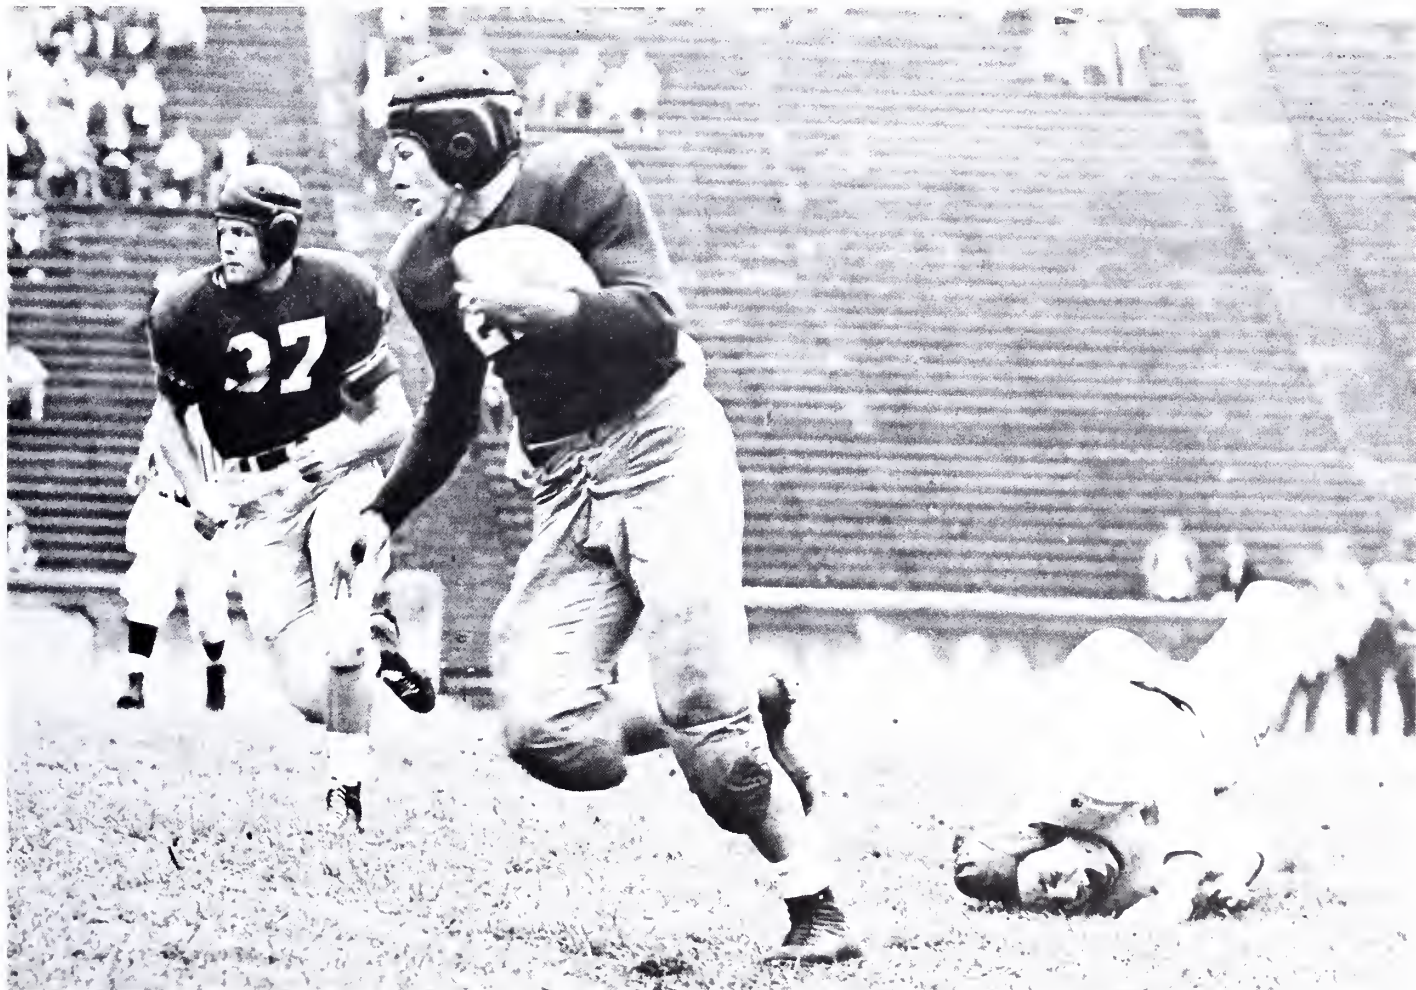

Justice erased more records than a company of auditors during his four years at UNC. He scored 234 points and passed or ran for 64 touchdowns. As a ball carrier he accumulated 2,634 yards.

His total offense record is still in the books at 4,883 yards. His punting average for four years was 42.6 yards per kick for 231 boots. Justice also was a dependable defensive player, going both ways on occasion for the Tar Heels and also as a Redskin.

Justice seemed to peak when the traditional games were being played. He led the Tar Heels to four straight wins over Duke. He was an All-America mention as a freshman and made many of the major teams as a junior and as a senior. He was runner-up for the Heisman Trophy to Doak Walker of SMU in 1949.

Charlie's finest moment came in the College All-Star Game of 1950 at Chicago's Soldier Field. He was voted the MVP of the game for good reason. The All-Stars walloped the Philadelphia Eagles, led by Steve Van Buren, 17-7. Justice gained 133 yards individually, or 48 more than the Eagles posted as a team. He set up a touchdown on a 60-yard pass from Eddie LeBaron of College of the Pacific.

Every year since Charlie's departure from Chapel Hill, someone has a "find" who is labeled as "the next Charlie Justice." No player has yet come up to Choo Choo's standards. Good runners, yes! Expert passers, yes! Booming punters, yes! But for endurance, ability to dazzle the crowd and overall quality, there was only one Charlie Justice.

Carolina's Bowl History

North Carolina has played in 13 post-season bowl games, including nine in the last 12 years.

No other Atlantic Coast Conference team has been to as many bowls in this recent stretch as Carolina. In fact, the only schools in America which have played in more bowls in this period are Alabama, Nebraska, Ohio State, Oklahoma, Penn State, Southern California and Texas.

Carolina's post-season trips have been to the Sugar Bowl in 1947 and 1949, the Cotton Bowl in 1950, the Peach Bowl in 1970 and 1976, the Sun Bowl in 1972 and 1974, the Liberty Bowl in 1977, the Bluebonnet Bowl in 1970 and the Gator Bowl in 1963, 1971, 1979 and 1981.

The Tar Heels' bowl history started in the late Forties when Charlie "Choo Choo" Justice was running wild from the single wing. Carolina went to bowl games three times during the Justice Era, but lost all three.

Perhaps the most famous of those games was the 1947 Sugar Bowl which matched Carolina against Georgia. The game produced one of the most controversial plays in bowl history. Carolina was leading 7-0 in the third period when Bulldog defensive end Joe Tereshinski intercepted a Tar Heel pass. He then flipped a lateral to Dick McPhee who raced to the Carolina 14.

The Tar Heels argued the lateral was a forward one and the play should have been called back. However, the officials ruled differently. Georgia went on to score and eventually won the game, 20-10.

Carolina returned to the Sugar Bowl two years later and lost to Oklahoma, 14-6. Justice had a great day for the Tar Heels, clicking off runs of 10, 13, 25, 11 and 14 yards. He punted four times for 65, 65, 57 and 53 yards.

Justice had another great day in the 1950 Cotton Bowl, but Carolina lost to Rice, 27-13.

The Tar Heels' next bowl appearance came in the 1963 Gator Bowl where Carolina walloped the Air Force, 35-0. Ken Willard was the big star that day. He ran for 94 yards on 18 carries and scored the first touchdown which keyed the runaway victory.

In the 1970 Peach Bowl the Tar Heels dropped a wild 48-26 decision to unbeaten Arizona State. All-America tailback Don McCauley had 143 yards rushing and three touchdowns for Carolina. But a second-half snowstorm and an injury to quarterback Paul Miller helped the Sun Devils race to victory.

The 1971 Gator Bowl produced a bowl first—brothers opposing each other as coaches in bowl competition. It matched Vince Dooley of Georgia against Bill of Carolina. The game was a great defensive struggle in which the Bulldogs came from behind to win, 7-3.

Carolina capped an 11-1 season in the 1972 Sun Bowl by defeating Texas Tech, 32-28. Quarterback Nick Vidnovic was the big star, completing 14 of 26 passes for 215 yards. He fired a 62-yard scoring strike to Ted Leverenz to help the Tar Heels to a 24-21 halftime lead.

Tech came back to go ahead, 28-24, but Vidnovic hit Leverenz with a 13-yard TD pass with just a minute to play to bring Carolina back. The Tar Heels then added two more points when Ronnie Robinson dropped Raider quarterback Joe Barnes for a safety.

Mike Voight and James Betterson had big days rushing in the 1974 Sun Bowl, but Mississippi State won another thriller, 26-24. The Tar Heels put on a desperation drive in the game's closing moments, but were stopped on a fourth-and-one at their own 48-yard line.

Playing without the injured Voight, Carolina lost to Kentucky, 21-0, in the 1976 Peach Bowl. The Tar Heels had trouble all day with a tough Wildcat defense.

Carolina dropped a heartbreaking 21-17 decision to Nebraska in the 1977 Liberty Bowl. Sparked by quarterback Matt Kupec, the Tar Heels held a 17-7 lead going into the fourth period. However, the Cornhuskers rallied behind reserve quarterback Randy Garcia to score their come-from-behind victory.

Kupec and Amos Lawrence were the big stars in Carolina's 17-15 win over Michigan in the 1979 Gator Bowl. Kupec directed a 97-yard touchdown drive in the third quarter which put the Tar Heels ahead to stay (14-9). Jeff Hayes later added a 32-yard field goal. Michigan scored with 1:28 left to cut the lead to two, but a two-point pass failed.

Kupec completed 18 of 28 passes, while Lawrence ran for 118 yards. They were named co-MVPs.

Lawrence again was the big star in Carolina's 16-7 win over Texas in the 1980 Bluebonnet Bowl. He rushed for 104 yards and had a 59-yard touchdown run. Carolina's other scoring came on a short plunge by Kelvin Bryant and a field goal by Hayes. A key factor in this game was the Carolina defense which limited the Longhorns to just two first downs and only 36 yards of total offense in the second half. Lawrence topped Bryant in voting for the game's outstanding offensive player, while Steve Streater edged Lawrence Taylor in balloting for the defensive MVP.

Bryant and his backup, Ethan Horton, both had big nights as Carolina defeated Arkansas, 31-27, in last year's Gator Bowl. Bryant rushed for 148 yards and Horton added 144. They shared the MVP award.

Carolina had a 31-10 lead in the fourth period when the Razorbacks staged a late comeback. Arkansas rallied to within 31-27 and had the ball in Carolina territory late in the game. However, a third down sack by nose guard Ronnie Snipes helped the Tar Heels kill that threat.
